Eisenhower Plans Meeting; Southern Press Is for Ike; Nixon Opens Campaign

Cracked by Quake

Bridge Plan Ready, Senator Wicks Says

School 8 Auction To Be Held Aug. 28

Building Needed No Longer By Education Board; Inquiries Made

Public School No. 8, Franklin street, which was closed when the George Washington School was opened last fall is to be offered for sale at a public auction to be held at 11 a. m. on August 28.

At an adjourned meeting of the Board of Education held Thursday afternoon for the purpose of confirming the tax list and directing the tax collector to collect school taxes, Trustee Baltz offered a resolution, seconded by Trustee O'Reilly, that the necessary steps be taken to dispose of No. 8 school since it is no longer needed for educational purposes and is requiring the expenditure of school tax money to maintain.

The property, located on the block surrounded by Franklin, Prospect, Liberty and Furnace streets, consists of a two-story brick building, one of the older school structures in the city.

Inquiries Are Reported

It is understood that there have been several inquiries regarding the premises and that interest has been shown in the property by prospective purchasers.

The resolution directs that the Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw, be empowered to advertise the sale and that the property be offered for sale at public auction to the highest bidder.

Under the terms of sale the property shall be used "so that no nuisance shall exist thereon and the purchaser shall comply with

Link-Road Award Might Be Given Out in 1952, He Reports

Plans for the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge are completed and contract-letting is expected next year.

The survey for the road connecting the bridge with a state highway on the west shore is complete, while that on the eastern side of the river is still being carried out. There is possibility that contracts for rough grading on each side of the river might be awarded this year.

This information came today from Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, of this city, who sponsored the Wicks-Hatfield bill eventually signed into law by Governor Thomas E. Dewey for the new span across the river.

To Build Approaches

Under an agreement between the Bridge Authority and the state, Senator Wicks said, the authority has been directed to build approaches to the nearest state highways on each side of the river.

On the west bank this would connect the span with Route 32, while on the eastern shore the bridge would connect with Route 9G. The state public works department then would undertake the connection with the New York State Thruway on the west shore, and with the Taconic Parkway on the east.

Favors Rough Grading Now

Senator Wicks said he had been in touch recently with Walter E. Joyce, engineer now in the employ of bridge designer David Barnard Steinman, of New York, who has drawn the plans for the new span. Senator Wicks

Democrat Would Have Mac Quit

Celler Would Offer Bill to Oust Him, if He Doesn't

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Rep. Emanuel Celler, New York Democrat, demanded today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur resign from the Army and relinquish his army pay and three-man military staff now that he has a highly-paid civilian job.

"Unless he does so, I will offer a bill at the next session of Congress to force him to quit," Celler said in a statement sent to the press.

MacArthur yesterday accepted the board chairmanship of Remington Rand, Inc., at a pay which Celler said would be "substantially upwards of $100,000."

Cites Taxpayer Cost

The Congressman, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said that while MacArthur remains on active duty, but on a non-assessment basis, the "U. S. taxpayers must allow him $19,548 army pay and allowances."

MacArthur's office had no comment.

Under Federal law, generals of the army and fleet admirals draw full pay for life regardless of retirement unless they specifically waive it.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, drew his army pay while president of Columbia University, but resigned after entering the political campaign.

U.S. to Begin Atomic Plan On Warship

AEC Asks Firm Work on Engine Big Enough to Propel Vessels Like Carriers

Range Speculated

100,000-Mile Voyages Visualized Without Refueling

By FRANK CAREY
(A.P. Science Reporter)

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The United States, reporting progress on atomic-powered submarines and aircraft, today launched a new project: Development of giant atomic-powered warships.

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced it had asked the Westinghouse Electric Company to develop an atomic engine capable of propelling "large vessels such as aircraft carriers."

This immediately revived speculation that atom-powered battlewagons and giant commercial liners like the Queen Mary and the USS United States could easily make 100,000 mile cruises at top speed—and without refueling.

Could Generate Power

Such estimates are based on the fact that a pound of fissionable uranium or its titanic twin, plutonium, could generate as much power as 1,500 tons of coal or 200,000 gallons of fuel oil.

The AEC's announcement came only a few hours after release of its 12th semi-annual report to Congress in which the commission reported progress on the development of nuclear-powered aircraft and on two different types of atomic engines for submarines.

The AEC also said uranium ore for America's ever-expanding atomic program will soon be coming from two new foreign sources—South Africa and Australia. The report further disclosed that additional uranium may come from new mining operations in Canada, long an American supplier, and that new sources within the United States itself are nearly ready for initial production.

Definitely Assured

The fact that AEC awarded the contract for the large vessel atomic engine project to Westinghouse indicates it believes that at least one submarine engine proj-

Doctor Kidnaped, Robbed by Pair

Descriptions Tally With Men Escaped From Matteawan

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—A Brooklyn doctor was kidnaped and robbed today by two men whose descriptions tallied with those of two inmates who escaped Monday from the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Beacon.

The two men drove Dr. Alfredo Reyes, 30, in his automobile from a St. John's Hospital parking place to the Canarsie section, five miles away, took $4 and his wristwatch, then released him unharmed.

Then they drove away in the automobile, a two-tone blue sedan.

Accosted by Two

Reyes had stepped from the hospital to the automobile shortly after midnight when he was accosted by the two men, one a Negro carrying a knife and the other a white man who held a piece of rubber hose with a metal

Defense Steel Production Sees 14,000 More Returning

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1 (AP)—Production of defense vital steel got another boost today as Crucible Steel Co. prepared to resume work.

Crucible and the CIO United Steel Workers signed a temporary agreement yesterday which will result in the company's 14,000 employes returning to their jobs immediately.

The agreement is similar to the strike-ending pact which the union and the nation's six biggest steel companies agreed upon last week. It provides an average 21-cent an hour pay boost for men now getting nearly $2 an hour.

Crucible has plants in Pittsburgh, Midland, Pa., Harrison, N. J., and Syracuse, N. Y.

Although the steel workers' union reached a strike-ending agreement with the "Big Six" companies it now is negotiating a complete contract. Negotiating sessions are underway with U. S. Steel and other firms. Such things as management rights, seniority and incentive pay rate procedure are being worked out. There was no report of progress from yesterday's first meeting with U. S. Steel and it was indicated the sessions may be lengthy.

The union also is negotiating contracts with some firms which thus far have not gone along with the agreement which ended the 55-day strike against the big producers.

Meanwhile, the auto industry's big three producers—General Motors, Chrysler and Ford—announced plans for stepping up lagging production.

Chrysler says it will reopen its foundries next week and hopes to have 55,000 employes—most of its personnel—back in the factories the following week.

Ford plans to resume five-day operations next week at its 15 division assembly plants across the nation, affecting 22,000 employes.

General Motors said its vast production network will remain crippled indefinitely. However, it said it will have 5,200 workers back on the job at Saginaw, Mich., Monday and 23,000 at Flint, Mich., by the middle of next week.

California GOP Senator at Columbus, O., Calls for Longer Prosperity in Nation

'Ike Will Fight'

Hard Drive by General Assured by Running Mate

Columbus, O., Aug. 1 (AP)—Republican Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California opened his vice presidential campaign last night with a call for prosperity based on peace and honest government.

The running-mate of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower delivered a fighting speech to a cheering state Republican convention. And he told an over-flow audience in the 2,845-seat Palace Theatre that "Ike" will be a fighting candidate for president "right down to Election Day."

Ike was more determined than ever about that, Nixon said, "after he heard what the Democrats in the Chicago convention were saying about him."

It was the 39-year-old Nixon's first political speech since his nomination July 11. He flew here from Dallas, Tex., and left for Denver, Colo., conferences with Eisenhower today and Saturday.

Sharing Program

Sharing the speaking program at the one-day convention were Arthur E. Summerfield of Michigan, the party's new national chairman; Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, nominee for reelection, Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, gubernatorial nominee and brother of Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Nixon, whose father came from Vinton county, O., told Ohio Republicans still smarting over Senator Taft's loss of the presidential nomination to Eisenhower, that Taft was "even greater in defeat than in victory."

Nixon saw in Senator Taft's telegram to the convention "a tip-off that Republicans are going to get behind their candidates for victory in November."

Taft wired while vacationing in Canada that he would "cooperate in every way with the program

Terrible Weather Only Part of Deal For Korean Forces

Michener Visits Front Lines in 114-Degree Heat Near Site of Truce Negotiations

By JAMES A. MICHENER

With the U. S. Marines, Korea (Delayed by Censor) (AP)—For the marines it was just another day. For me it was a strange introduction to the fantastic war they are fighting north of Seoul.

I wish all Americans could have experienced it. Then they would understand something of the Korean war.

I started early with a helicopter trip to the front. I rode at 100 feet in a 'copter whose side had been ripped away so I could hang over the edge and look straight down at the strange, sweet beauty of Korea. Red hills, green pines, handsome rivers, ancient graveyards and up ahead the battle line.

Our troops are dug into bunkers and deep trenches, but even so, each day incoming enemy shells kill some of our men. Today more than 900 enemy shells will hit our positions.

Temperature Is 114

The temperature rises to 114 degrees. I've never known such heat not even on the equator but probably that's because down there I never worked so hard as I shall this day. For we climb to several hill positions and from the moment I start I shall not be dry. It is a stinking, steaming, dangerous war.

Mid-morning I visit one of the most incredible positions ever occupied by American troops. It is an isolated hill four miles within enemy lines, completely surrounded by Chinese Communist territory and looking down upon the fateful armistice negotiation tents at Panmunjom.

As I stand in this strange outpost I see through the glasses 18 Communist soldiers filtering down a hill they mistakenly think to be in the neutral zone. They are going to set up a gun with which to harass our hill. A beardless lieutenant at my side calls down an artillery mission, which lands smack on the enemy and inflicts heavy casualties. The young lieutenant shows no sign of triumph. Less than a week ago 17 of his buddies were killed by the Communists near that very spot.

Weather Intensifies War; 3 Red Planes Downed by Yanks

Air Force Summary Says Communists Lose 32 Craft in July, 19 for UN

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 1 (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Air Force said United Nations pilots shot down three Communist jets and damaged two over North Korea today as clearing weather brought renewed intensity to the war.

The Russian-made MIG-15 jets were shot down in the first all-jet battle since July 23. Planes from a flight of 32 U. S. Sabre jets battled elements of more than 60 MIGs for more than 10 minutes near the Korean-Manchuria border. Allied losses, if any, were not reported.

In Tokyo, Gen. O. P. Weylan, commanding general of the U. S. Far East Air Forces, announced the addition of about 75 sleek F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bombers to UN air strength for action over Korea.

A monthly air force summary reported that the Communists lost 32 planes in July, the United Nations, 19.

Old Baldy Stormed

Supported by fighter bombers and artillery fire, allied doughboys stormed Old Baldy from two sides Thursday night. By dawn Friday, they had forced an estimated 200 Chinese Reds down its mud-caked slopes and immediately began digging in.

Recapture of the strategic outpost west of Chorwon marked the first intense group fighting since last Saturday, the first if six days of heavy rain.

The surprise allied pincer movement on Old Baldy came just 10 days after a Chinese battalion seized the barren crest. It followed the Thursday visit to the sector by Gen. James Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander.

Crest Is Secured

Eighth Army headquarters said the crest was secured at 9 a. m. but Communist big guns sprayed U. N. positions for hours afterward and the Reds were reported bringing up reinforcements in the afternoon.

Associated Press correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the front that allied fighter bombers swooped in on Chinese positions all morning. A frontline officer said Chinese sniper and mortar fire hampered evacuation of allied dead and wounded.

U. N. soldiers took advantage of the light from a half-moon to break the Reds' hold on the hill which has been the object of bitter fighting for a month.

Several 'Undecided' Are Expected to Give Their Support Eventually

Atlanta, Aug. 1 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will have the editorial support of more newspapers than ever before backed a Republican presidential nominee in the traditionally Democratic south.

An Associated Press survey of nearly 100 papers in 11 southern states showed today that 41 have endorsed the general or will do so and past performance indicates several in the "undecided" list will go to him.

Paradoxically, however, this does not mean that editors of the area are much more opposed to the 1952 Democratic candidate, Adlai Stevenson, than they were in 1948. Four years ago the anti-New Deal-anti-Fair Deal sentiment was divided between Thomas Dewey, the GOP nominee, and Strom Thurmond, choice of the States' Righters and these two men drew more editorial page endorsements from Truman. That year, 24 of the papers surveyed were for Dewey, 22 for Thurmond.

At this early stage in the campaign, only 22 papers have come out for Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman, the Democrats' vice presidential nominee from Alabama. In 1948, 35 of those questioned this year were lined up for Truman. Presumably, Stevenson's total will approach that.

Stevenson Might Tell of Conference

Has Long Talk With Wyatt; Sources Say He Might Be Party Leader

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1 (AP) — Gov. Adlai Stevenson may reveal today his significance of his lengthy conference with Wilson Wyatt, former federal housing expediter.

The Democratic presidential nominee conferred with Wyatt throughout yesterday afternoon and evening—with only one major interruption.

Some political sources have reported Wyatt may play an important role in the Democratic national campaign—that Stevenson may be considering him as a possible successor to Frank McKinney, Democratic National Committee chairman.

Stevenson's office did not immediately comment on the reports.

Violent Electrical Storms Bring No Drouth Relief

(By The Associated Press)

Brief but violent electrical storms with gale force winds struck scattered areas of New England late yesterday causing heavy damage but failed to bring any relief from drouth conditions.

Western Massachusetts and parts of New Hampshire and Maine bore the brunt of the storms that damaged homes, uprooted trees, flattened crops, knocked out electricity and telephone service and caused millions of dollars damage.

In the Sunderland-Whately area in western Massachusetts a 10-minute storm, accompanied by hail, caused unofficially estimated damage of one million dollars to tobacco and other crops.

Four barns were flattened in that area.

The storm—concentrated in an area about three miles long and half a mile wide in that area—felled a number of trees and snapped hundreds of branches. Telephone and power lines were knocked out.

Concord and the Lake Winnepesaukee region were the hardest hit in New Hampshire.

The Weather Bureau said about one-sixth of an inch of rain fell during the storm and the wind was clocked in gusts up to 48 miles an hour.

Many residents described the storm as worse than the 1938 hurricane.

Scores of store windows were shattered and numerous homes and automobiles were damaged by falling trees.

In Winthrop, Me., near Augusta, trees were felled across power lines and summer cottages on Lake Maranacook.

The storm also cut a wide swath through nearby Readfield, Mt. Vernon and Wayne. The Tallwood Point resort area was reported almost denuded of its tall trees.

Two violent electrical storms hit the Harvard, Mass., area causing heavy damage to crops and knocking out several power lines.

There are only a few light scattered showers in the Boston area. However, several showers hit the Boston area early today.

Leaders Are Intent Upon Organizing

Citizens Committee Is to Get Place High in Plans for Real Battle

Bigwigs Arrive

Prominent Persons Are on Hand for Closed Session

Denver, Aug. 1 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower meets today with his campaign high command to map plans for his White House bid and perhaps decide the role of a citizens' group seeking a major assignment.

In advance of the closed session (about 4:30 p. m., EST), the Republican presidential nominee was reported to be determined to give the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee an important place in the campaign organization.

The question was, just how to do it without causing friction between the professional politicians—the regular Republican organizations around the country—and the self-described amateurs of the citizens group.

Only One Phase

That matter, however, was only one phase of the discussions scheduled to continue over the weekend. Issues, campaign itinerary and general strategy also were on the docket.

Those called to the huddle by the general include his running mate, Sen. Richard Nixon of California, and the new chairman of the GOP National Committee, Arthur E. Summerfield, who also will manage Eisenhower's campaign.

Among others on hand for the first big policy conference since Eisenhower was nominated are Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, the general's political chief of staff, and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who managed the general's campaign for the nomination. Lodge, seeking re-election to the Senate, has given up his more active role to head the campaign advisory committee.

Dirksen Expected

Expected tonight is Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. At the GOP National Convention, Dirksen sharply criticized Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York—a key Eisenhower supporter — and placed in nomination the name of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the general's chief rival.

Two days ago Summerfield named Dirksen to an Eisenhower strategy board in an obvious move to close party ranks behind the general.

Taft himself is vacationing in Canada but has promised Eisenhower wholehearted cooperation in the campaign.

Present for today's session are Walter Williams of Seattle and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord of New York, co-chairman of the Eisenhower Citizens Committee — a group which played a leading part in winning the nomination for the general.

Williams and Mrs. Lord asked Eisenhower yesterday to give the citizens group the job of rallying to his support 10 million more voters than now are enrolled as Republicans. They said the recruits are needed if the general is to win in November.

The committee's leaders also asked the general to give the citizens group independent status, although they proposed "a working relationship" with the GOP National Committee.

Eisenhower advisers reportedly are divided on whether the citizens Committee should have independent status. However, Paul G. Hoffman told newsmen he is confident friction can be avoided.

Hoffman, former chief of the Economic Cooperation Administration, served as chairman of an advisory group to the Citizens Committee during the pre-convention campaign.

He announced yesterday he is giving up that assignment to return to his job as president of the Ford Foundation.

Taft himself is vacationing in Canada but has promised Eisenhower wholehearted cooperation in the campaign.

Present for today's session are Walter Williams of Seattle and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord of New York, co-chairman of the Eisenhower Citizens Committee — a group which played a leading part in winning the nomination for the general.

Williams and Mrs. Lord asked Eisenhower yesterday to give the citizens group the job of rallying to his support 10 million more voters than now are enrolled as Republicans. They said the recruits are needed if the general is to win in November.

The committee's leaders also asked the general to give the citizens group independent status, although they proposed "a working relationship" with the GOP National Committee.

Eisenhower advisers reportedly are divided on whether the citizens Committee should have independent status. However, Paul G. Hoffman told newsmen he is confident friction can be avoided.

Hoffman, former chief of the Economic Cooperation Administration, served as chairman of an advisory group to the Citizens Committee during the pre-convention campaign.

He announced yesterday he is giving up that assignment to return to his job as president of the Ford Foundation.

Bridge Plan Ready, Senator Wicks Says

School 8 Auction To Be Held Aug. 28

Building Needed No Longer By Education Board; Inquiries Made

Public School No. 8, Franklin street, which was closed when the George Washington School was opened last fall is to be offered for sale at a public auction to be held at 11 a. m. on August 28.

At an adjourned meeting of the Board of Education held Thursday afternoon for the purpose of confirming the tax list and directing the tax collector to collect school taxes, Trustee Baltz offered a resolution, seconded by Trustee O'Reilly, that the necessary steps be taken to dispose of No. 8 school since it is no longer needed for educational purposes and is requiring the expenditure of school tax money to maintain.

The property, located on the block surrounded by Franklin, Prospect, Liberty and Furnace streets, consists of a two-story brick building, one of the older school structures in the city.

Inquiries Are Reported

It is understood that there have been several inquiries regarding the premises and that interest has been shown in the property by prospective purchasers.

The resolution directs that the Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw, be empowered to advertise the sale and that the property be offered for sale at public auction to the highest bidder.

Under the terms of sale the property shall be used "so that no nuisance shall exist thereon and the purchaser shall comply with

Link-Road Award Might Be Given Out in 1952, He Reports

Plans for the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge are completed and contract-letting is expected next year.

The survey for the road connecting the bridge with a state highway on the west shore is complete, while that on the eastern side of the river is still being carried out. There is possibility that contracts for rough grading on each side of the river might be awarded this year.

To Build Approaches

Under an agreement between the Bridge Authority and the state, Senator Wicks said, the authority has been directed to build approaches to the nearest state highways on each side of the river.

On the west bank this would connect the span with Route 32, while on the eastern shore the bridge would connect with Route 9G. The state public works department then would undertake the connection with the New York State Thruway on the west shore, and with the Taconic Parkway on the east.

Favors Rough Grading Now

Senator Wicks said he had been in touch recently with Walter E. Joyce, engineer now in the employ of bridge designer David Barnard Steinman, of New York, who has drawn the plans for the new span. Senator Wicks

Doctor Kidnaped, Robbed by Pair

Descriptions Tally With Men Escaped From Matteawan

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—A Brooklyn doctor was kidnaped and robbed today by two men whose descriptions tallied with those of two inmates who escaped Monday from the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Beacon.

The two men drove Dr. Alfredo Reyes, 30, in his automobile from a St. John's Hospital parking place to the Canarsie section, five miles away, took $4 and his wristwatch, then released him unharmed.

Then they drove away in the automobile, a two-tone blue sedan.

Accosted by Two

Reyes had stepped from the hospital to the automobile shortly after midnight when he was accosted by the two men, one a Negro carrying a knife and the other a white man who held a piece of rubber hose with a metal

Democrat Would Have Mac Quit

Celler Would Offer Bill to Oust Him, if He Doesn't

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Rep. Emanuel Celler, New York Democrat, demanded today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur resign from the Army and relinquish his army pay and three-man military staff now that he has a highly-paid civilian job.

"Unless he does so, I will offer a bill at the next session of Congress to force him to quit," Celler said in a statement sent to the press.

MacArthur yesterday accepted the board chairmanship of Remington Rand, Inc., at a pay which Celler said would be "substantially upwards of $100,000."

Cites Taxpayer Cost

The Congressman, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said that while MacArthur remains on active duty, but on a non-assessment basis, the "U. S. taxpayers must allow him $19,548 army pay and allowances."

MacArthur's office had no comment.

Under Federal law, generals of the army and fleet admirals draw full pay for life regardless of retirement unless they specifically waive it.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, drew his army pay while president of Columbia University, but resigned after entering the political campaign.

Defense Steel Production Sees 14,000 More Returning

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1 (AP)—Production of defense vital steel got another boost today as Crucible Steel Co. prepared to resume work.

Crucible and the CIO United Steel Workers signed a temporary agreement yesterday which will result in the company's 14,000 employes returning to their jobs immediately.

The agreement is similar to the strike-ending pact which the union and the nation's six biggest steel companies agreed upon last week. It provides an average 21-cent an hour pay boost for men now getting nearly $2 an hour.

Crucible has plants in Pittsburgh, Midland, Pa., Harrison, N. J., and Syracuse, N. Y.

Although the steel workers' union reached a strike-ending agreement with the "Big Six" companies it now is negotiating a complete contract. Negotiating sessions are underway with U. S. Steel and other firms. Such things as management rights, seniority and incentive pay rate procedure are being worked out. There was no report of progress from yesterday's first meeting with U. S. Steel and it was indicated the sessions may be lengthy.

The union also is negotiating contracts with some firms which thus far have not gone along with the agreement which ended the 55-day strike against the big producers.

Meanwhile, the auto industry's big three producers—General Motors, Chrysler and Ford—announced plans for stepping up lagging production.

Chrysler says it will reopen its foundries next week and hopes to have 55,000 employes—most of its personnel—back in the factories the following week.

Ford plans to resume five-day operations next week at its 15 division assembly plants across the nation, affecting 22,000 employes.

General Motors said its vast production network will remain crippled indefinitely. However, it said it will have 5,200 workers back on the job at Saginaw, Mich., Monday and 23,000 at Flint, Mich., by the middle of next week.

Drouth Disaster Areas

The severe drouth that has burned up millions of dollars worth of crops in 12 states caused the government to declare Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi (black) "disaster loan areas." Large parts of Missouri and Arkansas (outlined in black) already have been designated disaster areas. Government farm experts also are studying conditions in New England, North and South Carolina, Louisiana, Virginia and Florida (shaded) to determine whether federal aid is needed. (AP Wirephoto)

Violent Electrical Storms Bring No Drouth Relief

(By The Associated Press)

Brief but violent electrical storms with gale force winds struck scattered areas of New England late yesterday causing heavy damage but failed to bring any relief from drouth conditions.

Western Massachusetts and parts of New Hampshire and Maine bore the brunt of the storms that damaged homes, uprooted trees, flattened crops, knocked out electricity and telephone service and caused millions of dollars damage.

In the Sunderland-Whately area in western Massachusetts a 10-minute storm, accompanied by hail, caused unofficially estimated damage of one million dollars to tobacco and other crops.

Four barns were flattened in that area.

The storm—concentrated in an area about three miles long and half a mile wide in that area—felled a number of trees and snapped hundreds of branches. Telephone and power lines were knocked out.

Concord and the Lake Winnepesaukee region were the hardest hit in New Hampshire.

The Weather Bureau said about one-sixth of an inch of rain fell during the storm and the wind was clocked in gusts up to 48 miles an hour.

Many residents described the storm as worse than the 1938 hurricane.

Scores of store windows were shattered and numerous homes and automobiles were damaged by falling trees.

In Winthrop, Me., near Augusta, trees were felled across power lines and summer cottages on Lake Maranacook.

The storm also cut a wide swath through nearby Readfield, Mt. Vernon and Wayne. The Tallwood Point resort area was reported almost denuded of its tall trees.

Two violent electrical storms hit the Harvard, Mass., area causing heavy damage to crops and knocking out several power lines.

There are only a few light scattered showers in the Boston area. However, several showers hit the Boston area early today.

Stevenson Might Tell of Conference

Has Long Talk With Wyatt; Sources Say He Might Be Party Leader

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 1 (AP) — Gov. Adlai Stevenson may reveal today his significance of his lengthy conference with Wilson Wyatt, former federal housing expediter.

The Democratic presidential nominee conferred with Wyatt throughout yesterday afternoon and evening—with only one major interruption.

Some political sources have reported Wyatt may play an important role in the Democratic national campaign—that Stevenson may be considering him as a possible successor to Frank McKinney, Democratic National Committee chairman.

Stevenson's office did not immediately comment on the reports.

One injury was reported and a driver was arrested following two slight traffic mishaps in the city yesterday.

Mrs. June Schushardt, 34, of 2334 North 41st street, Milwaukee, Wis., reported a head injury following a collision at Clinton and Albany avenues.

A police report at 1:50 p. m., said a coupe driven by Herbert O. Schurshardt, of the same address, was making a right turn from Albany to Clinton avenue when it was in collision with a truck of the Poughkeepsie Terminal and Transfer Co., Inc., headed out of Thomson's Laundry driveway.

Joseph Genther, 28, of Hillcrest avenue, was arrested on a charge that he was driving with his operator's license revoked, following a mishap at St. James street and Broadway. He was fined $25 and his registration was suspended when he appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today.

A police report at 4:48 p. m., said the car driven by Genther was in collision with the rear of a sedan owned and operated by Howard J. Carr, of 81 Clinton avenue, who was driving south on Broadway.

Pines Are 'Cooked'

Danbury, Conn., Aug. 1 (AP)—A tree expert said today that thousands of white pines, in a 135-mile long strip from Kent, Conn., to Rutland, Vt., have been "cooked" by this summer's drouth. Leonard M. Johnson, vice president of the Bartlett Tree Expert Co., of Stamford, Conn., estimated one pine in every five has been seriously damaged. The trees are in a belt at least 25 miles wide, straddling the New York state line through northwestern Connecticut, western Massachusetts and western Vermont.

Terrible Weather

artillery shelling is that while I followed the flight of our shells, the shadow of our hill fell almost across the tents of Panmunjom. I turned less than 40 degrees away from the dead enemy, and I could watch our negotiators enter the meeting at Panmunjom. Tonight, when the negotiations have ended, Communists will try to penetrate this lonely outpost and if they succeed they will destroy our men. The war never ceases.

In the afternoon I climb to another advanced position to study the effectiveness of close marine air support against a hill which our ground troops cannot reach. Four marine pilots roar down through intense flak and blast a hill with tons of fire. They accomplish wonders but as the last plane pulls away it starts to spray oil. I know it will have to crash. Silently, prayerfully, we wait for the explosion. But none comes.

Lucky Day for Marcus

This is the lucky day for pilot Marcus McAnally of Houston, Tex. He belly lands within a thousand yards of the press train at Munsan—and within three minutes after he walks away unhurt, he is being interviewed. Say his friends, "a cheap bid for publicity."

The temperature now is 118 degrees and every marine I meet is soaked in sweat. But they go on lifting and carrying and lugging and pushing. Later, when it is cool, they will go out into no man's land—this war is much like 1914—where they will probe enemy lines until daybreak.

In the late afternoon Col. Fred Henderson of Gary, Ind., tells me I must see this amazing wild man who works the rockets. Capt. Joe Travers, Buffalo, N. Y., is this year's version of the 1864 Confederate cavalry. He says, "you can watch us fire this mission if you want to. But be ready to scram like a bat out of hell. Don't turn your jeep off."

Ripple Is Betrayal

A ripple of rockets is something never to forget. The roar and the flame and the swoosh and the excited movement of the crew are ghostly, but the tell-tale flash and the great pillar of dust thrown up by the back-blast betray your position immediately.

Col. Henderson ripped our jeep right out of there at frightening speed. Thirty seconds after we hauled tail a salvo of Communist shells landed right where we had been. They were 105's and they chewed the place up pretty badly. Ironically both the shells and the gun which fired them were handed to the Chinese by America in 1947.

Tomorrow Travers and his wild riding men—they use jeeps—will launch their rockets from some other spot. If Travers hangs around even one minute after launching he'll be a done duck. Day and night duels like this go on.

Not Always Winners

Believe me, the Americans do not always win.

At dusk I flew back in another open helicopter over land which seems more beautiful than it did at dawn. I am filthy. I've lost 11 pounds in sweat. The temperature still is up around 100. And everywhere along the front patrols are getting ready to go out. There will be night battles and there will be dead.

I join Gen. John Selden's briefing at marine headquarters and there I hear the remorseless adding machine of war: "First Marines, three dead . . . enemy assault . . . the F4U pilot never got out of his plane when it crashed . . . send a case of beer to the Korean marines who captured the prisoners . . . tonight four more probing attacks by HOW company . . ."

It's war. It all happened within a few miles of Panmunjom and it will go on happening for men here fear that there will be no end.

41 Dixie . . .

Virginia and the Carolinas which endorsed a ticket in 1948 or have done so this year. It covered most of the leading papers in all the 11 states.

Twelve of the papers endorsing Truman four years ago have taken no stand in this campaign as yet, and 13 of the editors favoring the 1948 States Rights ticket are similarly silent thus far in 1952.

Only four papers supporting Dewey in 1948 have taken no stand this year, while nine who were neutral in the last race now have thrown their support to Eisenhower.

The Republican ticket also is favored by four papers backing the states righters while the Democrats picked up only one from that group.

Preference Expressed

And 20 of the papers supporting the 1948 Republican ticket have expressed a preference to Eisenhower.

Oklahoma, Florida and Alabama are supplying the top standard bearer most of his southern newspaper support.

The six papers in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Enid, Okla, centers of the Republican strength in that nominally Democratic state, are supporting Ike. They also endorsed Dewey in 1948.

However, most of southern Oklahoma is solidly Democratic and most papers in that section generally support the Democratic ticket.

Seven of Alabama's daily newspapers have endorsed Eisenhower, including both papers each in Birmingham and Montgomery. The Birmingham Post-Herald and the Montgomery Advertiser endorsed no candidates in 1948 but opposed the states righters.

The Dothan Eagle backed Dewey in 1948 and the other Ike supporters endorsed the states righters or were neutral in the last campaign.

The only endorsement for Stevenson has come from the Tuscaloosa News, which took no stand in 1948. The undecided group includes the Florence Times and Tri-Cities dailies, which backed Truman before the Times in Huntsville, home town of Senator Sparkman.

Eight in Florida

In Florida, eight papers have endorsed Eisenhower or indicated they will do so. The Orlando Star-Sentinel gave its endorsement to Ike after 63 years of supporting Democratic nominees.

Of the other Florida papers leading to Eisenhower, two were states rights supporters in 1948 and the rest endorsed Dewey.

The Daytona Beach News-Journal is supporting the Democratic ticket and one other paper has indicated it expects to endorse it later.

Tennessee also, has six papers favoring Eisenhower, five of which supported Dewey in 1948. They include the Memphis Commercial Appeal and Press Scimitar, the Chattanooga Times and Free Press and the Knoxville News Sentinel.

The Nashville Tennesseean, which supported Truman in 1948, has endorsed Stevenson, and the Nashville Banner, states rights backer in 1948, has taken no stand.

Help in Mississippi

Of the eight leading Mississippi papers, all of which endorsed the states righters in 1948, two have endorsed Eisenhower and one Stevenson; the others are undecided. The Hattiesburg American and the Laurel Leader-Call now favor Ike while the West Point Times Leader is supporting Stevenson.

Only two Georgia papers, the Savannah Morning News and Evening Press, has endorsed the Republican candidate, as they did Dewey in 1948. But two others indicated they probably will support Eisenhower later.

One paper, the Macon News, has come out for the Democratic ticket and three others say they may do the same. The other Georgia papers have indicated no choice.

Of the five Virginia papers which have expressed a preference, four including the Richmond News Leader favor the Republican nominee. Four others indicate a leaning toward Eisenhower.

To Support Tradition

The Covington Virginian intends to support the Democratic ticket as it has done traditionally and 16 other papers are undecided.

Kentucky newspapers are more positive about their views. The Louisville Times and Courier Journal are awaiting campaign developments before taking a stand.

The Lexington Leader is the only Kentucky paper supporting Eisenhower. It favored Dewey in 1948.

Six others, including the Lexington Herald, will support the Democratic ticket as in the past.

Five of seven papers in the Carolinas, including the Raleigh News and Observer, are supporting the Democratic ticket. Two are undecided, with one disclosing a leaning toward Ike.

Called Disaster Area

Boston, Aug. 1 (AP)—Gov. Paul A. Dever of Massachusetts said last night he had received word from Washington that the U. S. Department of Agriculture is "ready and willing" to declare the commonwealth a disaster area because of the more than a month-long New England drouth. Declaration by the federal government of Massachusetts as a "disaster area" would make hard-pressed Bay State farmers eligible for low-interest, long-term federal loans.

Coronation Seats

London, Aug. 1 (AP)—Britain will set up about 90,000 observation seats for Queen Elizabeth's coronation procession next June and spectators will have to shell out from $10 to $15 to sit in them. These seats will take care of about half the spectators, it was estimated. The other half will pay fancy prices for seats atop privately owned buildings.

School 8 Auction

all the provisions of law and statutes appurtenant and applicable thereto."

The sale of the property will be subject to the approval of the board and the board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The president of the board is empowered by the resolution to execute a quit claim deed.

Pupils Transferred

Prior to the closing of the school, No. 8 was used by the pupils from the district and also by students from No. 1 school in Wilbur, which had been closed and was later sold at auction. When the Washington school was opened all of the pupils were transferred from No. 8 to the Washington school.

There has been a question in the minds of some members of the board as to the advisability of disposing of No. 8 school at this time in view of the increasing school population and the possibility that the building might be needed in a few years to house any overflow from the Washington school, pending construction of additional new buildings which are now incorporated in a long range building program.

The board approved a resolution authorizing payment of bills for alterations to the high school cafeteria and kitchen for the month of July amounting to $33,396.30. These bills will be paid out of the Capital Fund.

A resolution was also adopted confirming the tax list and authorizing collection of the school tax in August.

Doctor Kidnaped

attachment. They ordered him into the automobile.

The doctor told police the Negro was about six feet tall, of medium build, and the white man was about five feet nine inches and slim.

Police contacted the hospital and quoted authorities there as saying the description given by Reyes tallied with those of two men for whom an alarm was sent out on Monday.

The hospital identified the escapees as Bernard Hubbard, 25, a Negro, of Brooklyn, and William Bertolino, 18, white, of East Meadow, Long Island, and said they had "non-homicidal" records.

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Coast guard headquarters today made public a photograph of "unidentified aerial phenomena" taken by a 21-year-old coast guard photographer. The photo clearly shows four round objects. Each appears to have two identical shafts of light extending across its center and protruding at the forward and rear ends. The lights are in a "V" formation. The coast guard said it has no opinion as to the cause or source of the "objects" and was releasing the picture only because of the widespread public interest in aerial phenomena. The picture was snapped by Shell R. Alpert, Salem, Mass., air station photographer.

Stevenson Might

William I. Flanagan, the governor's press secretary, said the mystery of the Stevenson-Wyatt meetings probably would be cleared up today, after the two meet for an early-morning conference.

Lunch, Discussions

Wyatt lunched with Stevenson yesterday in the Illinois executive mansion. They then went to the governor's office for discussions that were interrupted for about an hour while Stevenson met with Sen. Kerr (D.-Okla.). Kerr was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson and Wyatt dined together last evening, then continued their conference. Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville, Ky., and national housing expediter in 1946-47, spent the night at the executive mansion.

The Stevenson-Wyatt friendship began when both were holding federal administrative posts in Washington.

Pep Meeting Held

Kerr told newsmen he and the governor had "a little pep meeting for the Democratic cause and a little memorial meeting for the Republican cause."

He said the agriculture plank of the Democratic platform had been discussed but declined to go into detail. In reply to a question, he said he didn't consider himself an advisor to Stevenson on farm problems or on anything else.

He promised, however, that in the campaign he would "do a whale of a lot of talking" about the agriculture plank, which he termed "one of the most important messages we have in our record and in our program."

U. S. to Begin . . .

ect is definitely assured of success.

This appears likely because Westinghouse is building an atomic submarine engine at the AEC's site in Arco, Idaho, which is scheduled to be installed in the navy's projected atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus.

Evidently the navy, too, has no doubts that the engine will work, because the service has already laid the keel of the Nautilus.

Meanwhile, another projected atomic submarine engine is being built by General Electric at an AEC-owned site in West Milton, N. Y.

Power Not Disclosed

The power of the engines has not been disclosed, but President Truman gave an idea of it when, in speaking at the keel-laying of the Nautilus, he said the sub would cruise underwater at "more than 20 knots" and that "a few pounds of uranium will give her ample fuel to travel thousands of miles at top speed."

Unofficial observers have speculated that atom-powered subs would be able to achieve 35 knots and possibly would hound the daylights out of the fastest non-atom ships of any navy.

Presumably then, the AEC and the navy have their sights set on atomic-powered surface craft with speeds far above those of present craft.

Bridge Plan . . .

said he told Joyce his thought about the new connecting links is that they should be done only in rough grading at present and that all finished work should be completed when the bridge is built. This, Senator Wicks said, would prevent the connections from being destroyed by the heavy traffic necessary to building the span.

Pines Are 'Cooked'

Danbury, Conn., Aug. 1 (AP)—A tree expert said today that thousands of white pines, in a 135-mile long strip from Kent, Conn., to Rutland, Vt., have been "cooked" by this summer's drouth. Leonard M. Johnson, vice president of the Bartlett Tree Expert Co., of Stamford, Conn., estimated one pine in every five has been seriously damaged. The trees are in a belt at least 25 miles wide, straddling the New York state line through northwestern Connecticut, western Massachusetts and western Vermont.

Terrible Weather

artillery shelling is that while I followed the flight of our shells, the shadow of our hill fell almost across the tents of Panmunjom. I turned less than 40 degrees away from the dead enemy, and I could watch our negotiators enter the meeting at Panmunjom. Tonight, when the negotiations have ended, Communists will try to penetrate this lonely outpost and if they succeed they will destroy our men. The war never ceases.

In the afternoon I climb to another advanced position to study the effectiveness of close marine air support against a hill which our ground troops cannot reach. Four marine pilots roar down through intense flak and blast a hill with tons of fire. They accomplish wonders but as the last plane pulls away it starts to spray oil. I know it will have to crash. Silently, prayerfully, we wait for the explosion. But none comes.

Lucky Day for Marcus

This is the lucky day for pilot Marcus McAnally of Houston, Tex. He belly lands within a thousand yards of the press train at Munsan—and within three minutes after he walks away unhurt, he is being interviewed. Say his friends, "a cheap bid for publicity."

The temperature now is 118 degrees and every marine I meet is soaked in sweat. But they go on lifting and carrying and lugging and pushing. Later, when it is cool, they will go out into no man's land—this war is much like 1914—where they will probe enemy lines until daybreak.

In the late afternoon Col. Fred Henderson of Gary, Ind., tells me I must see this amazing wild man who works the rockets. Capt. Joe Travers, Buffalo, N. Y., is this year's version of the 1864 Confederate cavalry. He says, "you can watch us fire this mission if you want to. But be ready to scram like a bat out of hell. Don't turn your jeep off."

Ripple Is Betrayal

A ripple of rockets is something never to forget. The roar and the flame and the swoosh and the excited movement of the crew are ghostly, but the tell-tale flash and the great pillar of dust thrown up by the back-blast betray your position immediately.

Col. Henderson ripped our jeep right out of there at frightening speed. Thirty seconds after we hauled tail a salvo of Communist shells landed right where we had been. They were 105's and they chewed the place up pretty badly. Ironically both the shells and the gun which fired them were handed to the Chinese by America in 1947.

Tomorrow Travers and his wild riding men—they use jeeps—will launch their rockets from some other spot. If Travers hangs around even one minute after launching he'll be a done duck. Day and night duels like this go on.

Not Always Winners

Believe me, the Americans do not always win.

At dusk I flew back in another open helicopter over land which seems more beautiful than it did at dawn. I am filthy. I've lost 11 pounds in sweat. The temperature still is up around 100. And everywhere along the front patrols are getting ready to go out. There will be night battles and there will be dead.

I join Gen. John Selden's briefing at marine headquarters and there I hear the remorseless adding machine of war: "First Marines, three dead . . . enemy assault . . . the F4U pilot never got out of his plane when it crashed . . . send a case of beer to the Korean marines who captured the prisoners . . . tonight four more probing attacks by HOW company . . ."

It's war. It all happened within a few miles of Panmunjom and it will go on happening for men here fear that there will be no end.

41 Dixie . . .

Virginia and the Carolinas which endorsed a ticket in 1948 or have done so this year. It covered most of the leading papers in all the 11 states.

Twelve of the papers endorsing Truman four years ago have taken no stand in this campaign as yet, and 13 of the editors favoring the 1948 States Rights ticket are similarly silent thus far in 1952.

Only four papers supporting Dewey in 1948 have taken no stand this year, while nine who were neutral in the last race now have thrown their support to Eisenhower.

The Republican ticket also is favored by four papers backing the states righters while the Democrats picked up only one from that group.

Preference Expressed

And 20 of the papers supporting the 1948 Republican ticket have expressed a preference to Eisenhower.

Oklahoma, Florida and Alabama are supplying the top standard bearer most of his southern newspaper support.

The six papers in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Enid, Okla. centers of the Republican strength in that nominally Democratic state, are supporting Ike. They also endorsed Dewey in 1948.

However, most of southern Oklahoma is solidly Democratic and most papers in that section generally support the Democratic ticket.

Seven of Alabama's daily newspapers have endorsed Eisenhower, including both papers each in Birmingham and Montgomery. The Birmingham Post-Herald and the Montgomery Advertiser endorsed no candidates in 1948 but opposed the states righters.

The Dothan Eagle backed Dewey in 1948 and the other Ike supporters endorsed the states righters or were neutral in the last campaign.

The only endorsement for Stevenson has come from the Tuscaloosa News, which took no stand in 1948. The undecided group includes the Florence Times and Tri-Cities dailies, which backed Truman before the Times in Huntsville, home town of Senator Sparkman.

Eight in Florida

In Florida, eight papers have endorsed Eisenhower or indicated they will do so. The Orlando Star-Sentinel gave its endorsement to Ike after 63 years of supporting Democratic nominees.

Of the other Florida papers leading to Eisenhower, two were states rights supporters in 1948 and the rest endorsed Dewey.

The Daytona Beach News-Journal is supporting the Democratic ticket and one other paper has indicated it expects to endorse it later.

Tennessee also, has six papers favoring Eisenhower, five of which supported Dewey in 1948. They include the Memphis Commercial Appeal and Press Scimitar, the Chattanooga Times and Free Press and the Knoxville News Sentinel.

The Nashville Tennesseean, which supported Truman in 1948, has endorsed Stevenson, and the Nashville Banner, states rights backer in 1948, has taken no stand.

Help in Mississippi

Of the eight leading Mississippi papers, all of which endorsed the states righters in 1948, two have endorsed Eisenhower and one Stevenson; the others are undecided. The Hattiesburg American and the Laurel Leader-Call now favor Ike while the West Point Times Leader is supporting Stevenson.

Only two Georgia papers, the Savannah Morning News and Evening Press, has endorsed the Republican candidate, as they did Dewey in 1948. But two others indicated they probably will support Eisenhower later.

One paper, the Macon News, has come out for the Democratic ticket and three others say they may do the same. The other Georgia papers have indicated no choice.

Of the five Virginia papers which have expressed a preference, four including the Richmond News Leader favor the Republican nominee. Four others indicate a leaning toward Eisenhower.

To Support Tradition

The Covington Virginian intends to support the Democratic ticket as it has done traditionally and 16 other papers are undecided.

Kentucky newspapers are more positive about their views. The Louisville Times and Courier Journal are awaiting campaign developments before taking a stand.

The Lexington Leader is the only Kentucky paper supporting Eisenhower. It favored Dewey in 1948.

Six others, including the Lexington Herald, will support the Democratic ticket as in the past.

Five of seven papers in the Carolinas, including the Raleigh News and Observer, are supporting the Democratic ticket. Two are undecided, with one disclosing a leaning toward Ike.

Declaration by the federal government of Massachusetts as a "disaster area" would make hard-pressed Bay State farmers eligible for low-interest, long-term federal loans.

Coronation Seats

London, Aug. 1 (AP)—Britain will set up about 90,000 observation seats for Queen Elizabeth's coronation procession next June and spectators will have to shell out from $10 to $15 to sit in them. These seats will take care of about half the spectators, it was estimated. The other half will pay fancy prices for seats atop privately owned buildings.

The sale of the property will be subject to the approval of the board and the board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The president of the board is empowered by the resolution to execute a quit claim deed.

Pupils Transferred

Prior to the closing of the school, No. 8 was used by the pupils from the district and also by students from No. 1 school in Wilbur, which had been closed and was later sold at auction. When the Washington school was opened all of the pupils were transferred from No. 8 to the Washington school.

There has been a question in the minds of some members of the board as to the advisability of disposing of No. 8 school at this time in view of the increasing school population and the possibility that the building might be needed in a few years to house any overflow from the Washington school, pending construction of additional new buildings which are now incorporated in a long range building program.

The board approved a resolution authorizing payment of bills for alterations to the high school cafeteria and kitchen for the month of July amounting to $33,-396.30. These bills will be paid out of the Capital Fund.

A resolution was also adopted confirming the tax list and authorizing collection of the school tax in August.

The doctor told police the Negro was about six feet tall, of medium build, and the white man was about five feet nine inches and slim.

Police contacted the hospital and quoted authorities there as saying the description given by Reyes tallied with those of two men for whom an alarm was sent out on Monday.

The hospital identified the escapees as Bernard Hubbard, 25, a Negro, of Brooklyn, and William Bertolino, 18, white, of East Meadow, Long Island, and said they had "non-homicidal" records.

William I. Flanagan, the governor's press secretary, said the mystery of the Stevenson-Wyatt meetings probably would be cleared up today, after the two meet for an early-morning conference.

Lunch, Discussions

Wyatt lunched with Stevenson yesterday in the Illinois executive mansion. They then went to the governor's office for discussions that were interrupted for about an hour while Stevenson met with Sen. Kerr (D.-Okla.). Kerr was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson and Wyatt dined together last evening, then continued their conference. Wyatt, former mayor of Louisville, Ky., and national housing expediter in 1946-47, spent the night at the executive mansion.

The Stevenson-Wyatt friendship began when both were holding federal administrative posts in Washington.

Pep Meeting Held

Kerr told newsmen he and the governor had "a little pep meeting for the Democratic cause and a little memorial meeting for the Republican cause."

He said the agriculture plank of the Democratic platform had been discussed but declined to go into detail. In reply to a question, he said he didn't consider himself an advisor to Stevenson on farm problems or on anything else.

He promised, however, that in the campaign he would "do a whale of a lot of talking" about the agriculture plank, which he termed "one of the most important messages we have in our record and in our program."

U. S. to Begin . . .

ect is definitely assured of success.

This appears likely because Westinghouse is building an atomic submarine engine at the AEC's site in Arco, Idaho, which is scheduled to be installed in the navy's projected atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus.

Evidently the navy, too, has no doubts that the engine will work, because the service has already laid the keel of the Nautilus.

Meanwhile, another projected atomic submarine engine is being built by General Electric at an AEC-owned site in West Milton, N. Y.

Power Not Disclosed

The power of the engines has not been disclosed, but President Truman gave an idea of it when, in speaking at the keel-laying of the Nautilus, he said the sub would cruise underwater at "more than 20 knots" and that "a few pounds of uranium will give her ample fuel to travel thousands of miles at top speed."

Unofficial observers have speculated that atom-powered subs would be able to achieve 35 knots and possibly would hound the daylights out of the fastest non-atom ships of any navy.

Presumably then, the AEC and the navy have their sights set on atomic-powered surface craft with speeds far above those of present craft.

Bridge Plan . . .

said he told Joyce his thought about the new connecting links is that they should be done only in rough grading at present and that all finished work should be completed when the bridge is built. This, Senator Wicks said, would prevent the connections from being destroyed by the heavy traffic necessary to building the span.

Attacker Is Linked By Police as One Who Killed Woman

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Police continued their search today for the attacker of two teen-age girls and they believe he may have been the strangler of a pregnant Mineola housewife.

The two girls, aged 15 and 17, reported being assaulted Wednesday — one while cycling with friends in Bethpage Park in Nassau county and the other while walking near her home in Babylon, Suffolk county. The attacks took place only a few hours apart.

In both cases, the girls' clothes were ripped off but they were not raped. The teen-agers, not identified, both described their attacker as a blonde young man with a crew haircut.

Police think the same man may have strangled 23-year-old Mrs. Josephine Brown last Friday night. The woman's body, her pearl necklace twisted into her neck, was found lying in a Queens street.

TB, Health Association Picnic

Speakers and officers are shown above at the orientation session and picnic for board members of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association in Woodstock on Wednesday. Left to right are: Alfred J. Ronder, association treasurer and host for the picnic; Mrs. Ronder; William Moore, Jr., campaign director for the Christmas Seal Sale and Heart Fund of the State Committee on TB and Public Health; Miss Eleanor Green, field consultant; Harry S. Ensign, president of the Ulster county association; Dr. Joseph Jacobson, retiring director of the county tuberculosis hospital; Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary, and Augustus Modjeska, chairman of the meeting.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

The Irving Scott family of 38 West Chester street sent me many interesting items. One of them is a little program booklet of the Grand Ball of the Exempt Firemen's Assn. of the City of Kingston, at the Academy of Music. The date was Tuesday, January 26, 1892. Those were the days when they had a grand march to start the ball. They list some 30 dances among which were the quadrille, waltz, lanciers, schottische, galop, polka and mazurka. On the floor committee I see William Jordan and among the officers was William B. Scott, treasurer.

I wonder how many readers have seen and felt a 100 year old newspaper. There are a lot of them around, and from time to time some are brought to me. In the Scott collection, there is "The Ulster Sentinel" of August 29, 1840 which makes it 112 years old. It was published in the village of Rondout and Kingston every Saturday by William Culley. This is Vol. XIV No. 742, so there are many more around. I see the name of James S. McEntee carefully written on top. The type is strange and not too even, but still readable.

One item in the front page advertising section reads in part: "New Tobacco Factory, Rondout, Ulster County, N. Y., near the termination of the Hudson and Delaware canal, where the subscriber proposes manufacturing smoking and chewing tobacco and segars of all descriptions. He will keep constantly for sale, Macaboy and Scotch Snuff, pipes, Spanish, half Spanish and common segars, keg, plug, Cavendish and nail rod tobacco. Merchants and dealers on the line of the canal, or other places, can be supplied with tobacco, snuff, etc., as reasonable as can be bought in New York city. John D. Middagh, at Rondout, is agent for the subscriber. All orders left with him at his store will be supplied at factory prices. Wm. M. Wiley."

It was only some 55 years after the Revolution that this paper was printed and it is remarkable to what extent commerce had progressed through Ulster county. Hurley Cheap Store was advertising: "D. P. Fuller & Co. are now opening a splendid and general assortments of seasonable goods, consisting of dry goods, groceries, hardware, crockery, drugs and medicines. Boots and shoes, provisions, hats, wooden pails, cedar churn, tubs, brooms, nails, hay forks, scythes, rifles, etc. In short, every article can be had at the Hurley Cheap Store that can be bought in the County of Ulster." Also, if modern folks think that they invented the word "Cut-rate" or "Cheap-store" they can go back to most any newspaper of the 1850's or earlier like this one of 1840 and see that old time merchants knew all about special bargains.

One of the items read: "Six cents reward. Ran away from the subscriber on the last of June, an indented apprentice, named Thomas Hughes, aged 12 years and 2 months. Taken from the Alms house in New York the 7th of June. He had on, when he went away a worsted cap, a plaid roundabout and pantaloons of summer wear, of light complexion. Persons harbouring or trusting said boy, do it at their peril. The above reward, but no charges will be paid for the delivery of said boy to the subscriber. J. M. Mackinson. Swangunk, March 23, 1840."

Members Give 'Stories'

Four recently added members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club who had not previously given their "autobiographies" were called upon to do so at the regular Thursday noon meeting of the club at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The members are Austin Boyd, Lloyd Davis, John Jordan and Edwin Shumate. Each new member joining the club is required to give a two-or three-minute talk about himself. Thursday's program was in charge of Herbert Greenwald. Members were reminded of the club's annual clambake, which will be held Thursday afternoon, August 7, at Williams Lake. The bake will begin at 3 p. m.

TB Association Has Session, Picnic

Groups of interested citizens coming together to form voluntary agencies concerned with some community problem are a fundamental part of our American system, William Moore, Jr., campaign director for the Christmas Seal Sale and Heart Fund of the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, said Wednesday afternoon.

Moore addressed approximately 50 members and guests of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association at a board orientation session and picnic at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Ronder in Woodstock.

Christmas Seals and the Double-Barred Cross have become symbols of the people's fight against tuberculosis through the years, Moore said. Terming the Christmas Seal "the most effective fund raising appeal" in the country's history, he described the progress of the sale from its inauguration in 1907, until 1951.

A brief history of the local association from its beginning in 1909 was outlined by Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary. She said that the county death rate from tuberculosis declined from 200 people per hundred thousand in 1900 to 19 per hundred thousand at present.

The present day program of the association was discussed by John T. Connelly, health education assistant. Miss Eleanor Green, field consultant for the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, spoke on the relationships of the local, state and national voluntary associations.

Dr. Joseph Jacobson, who will retire on Sept. 1 as medical director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, thanked the association for its cooperation and help during his two-year administration. Augustus Modjeska was chairman of the session and was aided by a committee of members and wives. A picnic supper was served by committee members.

Man Takes Car, But Leaves Shoes

New York, Aug. 1 (AP) — The man who stole a car here today and crashed it through a gate before abandoning it left a pair of shoes behind. So police looked for a barefoot suspect.

They found George Lack, 22, a rug-cleaner from Queens, strolling shoeless about a block away, and charged him with grand larceny.

Police said Lack apparently was out for a lark, climbed the wire fence of an east side used car lot and drove someone's car through the locked gate. They said he drove it only a block and then proceeded on foot, losing his moccasin-type shoes in the first few steps.

Lack's address was listed as 204 Astoria Boulevard, Astoria.

Crops Suffer Badly In New York Area

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Lack of heavy rains in the metropolitan area for the past month has caused considerable damage to crops, agricultural agents said yesterday.

And the only rains in sight, according to Weather Bureau meteorologists, are normal summer thundershowers—not heavy, soaking rains that farmers need.

A Rockland county official said the tomato yield in that region is running about 65 to 70 per cent of normal. In Suffolk county, the current drouth has cut the harvesting of early Cobbler potatoes by 25 per cent. Also suffering from the dry spell in Suffolk are sweet corn, carrots, beets, tomatoes and cucumbers.

A Nassau county observer said lettuce and spinach crops had been pretty well burned out.

However, the New York city Department of Markets said the drouth had not yet affected fruit and vegetable prices and that corn and tomatoes were plentiful. A markets official said the bulk of the crop sold here did not come from neighboring areas.

Dance Educators Award Honor to Kingston Teacher

At a recent convention of 300 dancing teachers in New York, Helen Cashin Davitt of this city was the recipient of an honorary certificate given to those who have contributed to the development of the dance, and two of her students were chosen to appear on the Paul Whiteman show in the near future.

Kathleen Mehm and Betty Bunce, acrobatic students of the Cashin School, were picked for the TV engagement after appearing in a Student Review staged for the Dance Educators of America in the grand ballroom of the Statler Hotel.

The certificate given to Mrs. Davitt denotes her 17 years of membership in the association, during which she helped youngsters to develop the sort of talent that prompted judges to pick the Misses Mehm and Bunce for the Whiteman show.

Study Latest Methods

While at the convention, Mrs. Davitt and other instructors put in 12 hours daily with the nation's greatest dancers, catching up on the latest developments in their field. Among those conducting classes were the famous Kathryn Lee of Broadway and television, and Lucia Chase, director of the Ballet Theatre.

Veteran soft shoe dancer Pat Rooney made guest appearances and discussed problems with the teachers. Rooney, Miss Lee and Miss Chase received awards for contributing most to the development of the dance during the past year.

The two Cashin students, who are to appear on the TV program, took part in the recent review the school staged at the Broadway Theatre, featuring children from 3 years to the teen-age.

158 Complaints Are Finished by Office On Discrimination

Summing up its activities for the first six months of 1952, the New York State Commission Against Discrimination today reported that 158 complaints had been closed and that 139 new verified complaints had been received by the commission during that period. Twenty fewer complaints were received by the commission in the same months in 1951.

The semi-annual report, released to the public by Edward W. Edwards, chairman of the commission, stated that 81 per cent of the complaints received charged discrimination because of race or color, while 12 per cent alleged discrimination on religious creed. The remaining seven per cent covered a variety of grounds for complaint.

Although the majority of the complaints alleging discrimination based on creed were of the Jewish faith, three persons the report said, claimed that they had been discriminated against because they were Protestants.

Following the customary pattern, 115 of the complaints received were made against employers, the report stated. Of the remaining complaints, 15 were filed against employment agencies and eight against labor unions.

Forms Revised

In addition to the routine examination employment application forms, conducted during the course of all investigations by the commission, 64 additional companies submitted their application forms for review by the commission. Forty-three of the companies were found to be making unlawful inquiries and they were requested to delete them from their forms.

The report disclosed that 68 review investigations were conducted by the commission during the first six months of the year. Review investigations are made periodically by the commission to determine the extent to which respondents have lived up to agreements previously concluded and to gauge the effect of the agreements upon the respondents' general employment practices.

More Negroes Hired

The report cited several cases in which appreciable changes in employment practices had been observed in review investigations:

A department store in Buffalo, which originally employed only 35 Negroes, now employs more than 75, several in sales and office work.

In the case of a large bank in New York, Negroes were found to be employed in the bank's main office and in eight of its branches. Originally no Negroes were employed in its main office and only three of its branch offices employed colored personnel.

A chain of three restaurants, which originally employed no Negro waitresses, was found during the review investigation to be employing seven Negro waitresses. The waitresses were working in all three restaurants.

A large engineering firm, which had employed 15 Negroes at the time of the original investigation, was, upon the occasion of the review, employing 35 Negroes, the majority of whom were technicians.

On Fifth Avenue

A Fifth avenue specialty shop, which employed no Negro sales personnel at the time of the original investigation, had 18 Negro employes, one in sales, at the time of the review.

The office of a magazine publisher which had no Negro employes at the time of the complaint was found to have hired two Negro employes during the re-investigation.

Credit Business Gains

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—The lifting of controls on installment buying last May 7 has pushed credit business to a new high. The biggest time payment boom was in autos. The Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday that installment buying during June jumped 593 million dollars on top of a 447 million rise in May. The total debt of installment buyers on June 30 stood at $13,767,000,000.

TB, Health Association Picnic

Speakers and officers are shown above at the orientation session and picnic for board members of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association in Woodstock on Wednesday. Left to right are: Alfred J. Ronder, association treasurer and host for the picnic; Mrs. Ronder; William Moore, Jr., campaign director for the Christmas Seal Sale and Heart Fund of the State Committee on TB and Public Health; Miss Eleanor Green, field consultant; Harry S. Ensign, president of the Ulster county association; Dr. Joseph Jacobson, retiring director of the county tuberculosis hospital; Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary, and Augustus Modjeska, chairman of the meeting.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

The Irving Scott family of 38 West Chester street sent me many interesting items. One of them is a little program booklet of the Grand Ball of the Exempt Firemen's Assn. of the City of Kingston, at the Academy of Music. The date was Tuesday, January 26, 1892. Those were the days when they had a grand march to start the ball. They list some 30 dances among which were the quadrille, waltz, lanciers, schottische, galop, polka and mazurka. On the floor committee I see William Jordan and among the officers was William B. Scott, treasurer.

I wonder how many readers have seen and felt a 100 year old newspaper. There are a lot of them around, and from time to time some are brought to me. In the Scott collection, there is "The Ulster Sentinel" of August 29, 1840 which makes it 112 years old. It was published in the village of Rondout and Kingston every Saturday by William Culley. This is Vol. XIV No. 742, so there are many more around. I see the name of James S. McEntee carefully written on top. The type is strange and not too even, but still readable.

One item in the front page advertising section reads in part: "New Tobacco Factory, Rondout, Ulster County, N. Y., near the termination of the Hudson and Delaware canal, where the subscriber proposes manufacturing smoking and chewing tobacco and segars of all descriptions. He will keep constantly for sale, Macaboy and Scotch Snuff, pipes, Spanish, half Spanish and common segars, keg, plug, Cavendish and nail rod tobacco. Merchants and dealers on the line of the canal, or other places, can be supplied with tobacco, snuff, etc., as reasonable as can be bought in New York city. John D. Middagh, at Rondout, is agent for the subscriber. All orders left with him at his store will be supplied at factory prices. Wm. M. Wiley."

It was only some 55 years after the Revolution that this paper was printed and it is remarkable to what extent commerce had progressed through Ulster county. Hurley Cheap Store was advertising: "D. P. Fuller & Co. are now opening a splendid and general assortments of seasonable goods, consisting of dry goods, groceries, hardware, crockery, drugs and medicines. Boots and shoes, provisions, hats, wooden pails, cedar churn, tubs, brooms, nails, hay forks, scythes, rifles, etc. In short, every article can be had at the Hurley Cheap Store that can be bought in the County of Ulster." Also, if modern folks think that they invented the word "Cut-rate" or "Cheap-store" they can go back to most any newspaper of the 1850's or earlier like this one of 1840 and see that old time merchants knew all about special bargains.

One of the items read: "Six cents reward. Ran away from the subscriber on the last of June, an indented apprentice, named Thomas Hughes, aged 12 years and 2 months. Taken from the Alms house in New York the 7th of June. He had on, when he went away a worsted cap, a plaid roundabout and pantaloons of summer wear, of light complexion. Persons harbouring or trusting said boy, do it at their peril. The above reward, but no charges will be paid for the delivery of said boy to the subscriber. J. M. Mackinson. Swangunk, March 23, 1840."

Members Give 'Stories'

Four recently added members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club who had not previously given their "autobiographies" were called upon to do so at the regular Thursday noon meeting of the club at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The members are Austin Boyd, Lloyd Davis, John Jordan and Edwin Shumate. Each new member joining the club is required to give a two-or three-minute talk about himself. Thursday's program was in charge of Herbert Greenwald. Members were reminded of the club's annual clambake, which will be held Thursday afternoon, August 7, at Williams Lake. The bake will begin at 3 p. m.

TB Association Has Session, Picnic

Groups of interested citizens coming together to form voluntary agencies concerned with some community problem are a fundamental part of our American system, William Moore, Jr., campaign director for the Christmas Seal Sale and Heart Fund of the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, said Wednesday afternoon.

Moore addressed approximately 50 members and guests of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association at a board orientation session and picnic at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Ronder in Woodstock.

Christmas Seals and the Double-Barred Cross have become symbols of the people's fight against tuberculosis through the years, Moore said. Terming the Christmas Seal "the most effective fund raising appeal" in the country's history, he described the progress of the sale from its inauguration in 1907, until 1951.

A brief history of the local association from its beginning in 1909 was outlined by Miss Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary. She said that the county death rate from tuberculosis declined from 200 people per hundred thousand in 1900 to 19 per hundred thousand at present.

The present day program of the association was discussed by John T. Connelly, health education assistant. Miss Eleanor Green, field consultant for the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, spoke on the relationships of the local, state and national voluntary associations.

Dr. Joseph Jacobson, who will retire on Sept. 1 as medical director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, thanked the association for its cooperation and help during his two-year administration. Augustus Modjeska was chairman of the session and was aided by a committee of members and wives. A picnic supper was served by committee members.

Man Takes Car, But Leaves Shoes

New York, Aug. 1 (AP) — The man who stole a car here today and crashed it through a gate before abandoning it left a pair of shoes behind. So police looked for a barefoot suspect.

They found George Lack, 22, a rug-cleaner from Queens, strolling shoeless about a block away, and charged him with grand larceny.

Police said Lack apparently was out for a lark, climbed the wire fence of an east side used car lot and drove someone's car through the locked gate. They said he drove it only a block and then proceeded on foot, losing his moccasin-type shoes in the first few steps.

Lack's address was listed as 204 Astoria Boulevard, Astoria.

Crops Suffer Badly In New York Area

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Lack of heavy rains in the metropolitan area for the past month has caused considerable damage to crops, agricultural agents said yesterday.

And the only rains in sight, according to Weather Bureau meteorologists, are normal summer thundershowers—not heavy, soaking rains that farmers need.

A Rockland county official said the tomato yield in that region is running about 65 to 70 per cent of normal. In Suffolk county, the current drouth has cut the harvesting of early Cobbler potatoes by 25 per cent. Also suffering from the dry spell in Suffolk are sweet corn, carrots, beets, tomatoes and cucumbers.

A Nassau county observer said lettuce and spinach crops had been pretty well burned out.

However, the New York city Department of Markets said the drouth had not yet affected fruit and vegetable prices and that corn and tomatoes were plentiful. A markets official said the bulk of the crop sold here did not come from neighboring areas.

Dance Educators Award Honor to Kingston Teacher

At a recent convention of 300 dancing teachers in New York, Helen Cashin Davitt of this city was the recipient of an honorary certificate given to those who have contributed to the development of the dance, and two of her students were chosen to appear on the Paul Whiteman show in the near future.

Kathleen Mehm and Betty Bunce, acrobatic students of the Cashin School, were picked for the TV engagement after appearing in a Student Review staged for the Dance Educators of America in the grand ballroom of the Statler Hotel.

The certificate given to Mrs. Davitt denotes her 17 years of membership in the association, during which she helped youngsters to develop the sort of talent that prompted judges to pick the Misses Mehm and Bunce for the Whiteman show.

Study Latest Methods

While at the convention, Mrs. Davitt and other instructors put in 12 hours daily with the nation's greatest dancers, catching up on the latest developments in their field. Among those conducting classes were the famous Kathryn Lee of Broadway and television, and Lucia Chase, director of the Ballet Theatre.

Veteran soft shoe dancer Pat Rooney made guest appearances and discussed problems with the teachers. Rooney, Miss Lee and Miss Chase received awards for contributing most to the development of the dance during the past year.

The two Cashin students, who are to appear on the TV program, took part in the recent review the school staged at the Broadway Theatre, featuring children from 3 years to the teen-age.

158 Complaints Are Finished by Office On Discrimination

Summing up its activities for the first six months of 1952, the New York State Commission Against Discrimination today reported that 158 complaints had been closed and that 139 new verified complaints had been received by the commission during that period. Twenty fewer complaints were received by the commission in the same months in 1951.

The semi-annual report, released to the public by Edward W. Edwards, chairman of the commission, stated that 81 per cent of the complaints received charged discrimination because of race or color, while 12 per cent alleged discrimination on religious creed. The remaining seven per cent covered a variety of grounds for complaint.

Although the majority of the complaints alleging discrimination based on creed were of the Jewish faith, three persons the report said, claimed that they had been discriminated against because they were Protestants.

Following the customary pattern, 115 of the complaints received were made against employers, the report stated. Of the remaining complaints, 15 were filed against employment agencies and eight against labor unions.

Forms Revised

In addition to the routine examination employment application forms, conducted during the course of all investigations by the commission, 64 additional companies submitted their application forms for review by the commission. Forty-three of the companies were found to be making unlawful inquiries and they were requested to delete them from their forms.

The report disclosed that 68 review investigations were conducted by the commission during the first six months of the year. Review investigations are made periodically by the commission to determine the extent to which respondents have lived up to agreements previously concluded and to gauge the effect of the agreements upon the respondents' general employment practices.

More Negroes Hired

The report cited several cases in which appreciable changes in employment practices had been observed in review investigations:

A department store in Buffalo, which originally employed only 35 Negroes, now employs more than 75, several in sales and office work.

In the case of a large bank in New York, Negroes were found to be employed in the bank's main office and in eight of its branches. Originally no Negroes were employed in its main office and only three of its branch offices employed colored personnel.

A chain of three restaurants, which originally employed no Negro waitresses, was found during the review investigation to be employing seven Negro waitresses. The waitresses were working in all three restaurants.

A large engineering firm, which had employed 15 Negroes at the time of the original investigation, was, upon the occasion of the review, employing 35 Negroes, the majority of whom were technicians.

On Fifth Avenue

A Fifth avenue specialty shop, which employed no Negro sales personnel at the time of the original investigation, had 18 Negro employes, one in sales, at the time of the review.

The office of a magazine publisher which had no Negro employes at the time of the complaint was found to have hired two Negro employes during the re-investigation.

EISENHOWER'S STATE

For the second time Kansas, as Eisenhower's home state, is in the presidential spotlight. In 1936 her favorite son, Gov. Alfred Landon, was the Republican nominee.

It is now plain that Landon was chosen because of the small field from which to pick. In 1934 the only Republican victors were Landon, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, and Gov. Harry W. Nice of Maryland. Vandenberg would not let his name be considered, and Nice did not impress himself on the nation. He received a number of votes for the 1936 vice-presidential nomination, which went to Frank Knox of Illinois. There remained only the outstanding Republican senator, William E. Borah of Idaho, who was passed up because of his record as a lone wolf, and Landon. Landon did not make a strong race, carrying only Maine and Vermont, and losing Kansas to FDR. Eisenhower is the first Kansan nominated since then.

For a state originally in the public eye as much as Kansas, she has not played so great a part politically as the talents of her sons have warranted. In the 1850's the efforts of the South to bring her into the Union as a slave state caused local civil war, giving her the name of "bleeding Kansas." Since then, until Landon's day her leading figures were Charles Curtis, senator for many years and vice president under Hoover, and John J. Ingalls, senator from 1873 to 1891.

Ingalls, a sharp-tongued and highly conservative Republican, best remembered for his comment that, "the purification of politics is an iridescent dream," and his satirical description of Delaware, with whose senators he was at odds, "a state with two counties when the tide is in and three when it is out."

Perhaps Kansas will now come in for a new period of prominence.

GOOD MAN GONE

The United States lost a valuable public servant with the death of Senator Brian McMahon of Connecticut. At 48 McMahon had risen to a place of prominence in the Senate and in the Democratic Party. He was head of the joint Senate-House atomic energy committee and his name was placed in nomination in the Democratic convention in Chicago as his state's favorite son candidate for the presidency.

Senators who have served in the last ten years have faced a unique problem. The new position of world leadership occupied by the United States and the terrible responsibility that goes with being custodian of the atomic bomb has forced most legislators to revise their thinking. McMahon who was first elected to the Senate in 1944 made a constant effort to do just that.

McMahon called for disarmament on several occasions but when it became apparent that Russia would not cooperate he worked energetically to speed up America's defense effort. His critics may question the effectiveness of some of his political judgments but few ever doubted the sincerity of his purpose. Senator Brian McMahon was one of the first legislators who had to concern himself with the great problems of a new age born in the shadow of exploding atom bombs.

SEEK TRUCK LOAD REDUCTION

For the second successive year, the State Rural Letter Carriers Association, seeking protection of the roads from heavy trucks, called for a sharp reduction in the state's allowable truck loads. The mailmen urged the state to lower its truck load limit per axle to 18,000 pounds to reduce the damage our roads suffer from the loads now permitted. New York currently permits truck loads as high as 22,400 pounds per axle.

The New York ceiling is higher than the limit set in 40 other states and is 4,400 pounds higher than the limit recommended by the American Association of State Highway Officials.

The shining new liner "S.S. United States" has sailed to the tune of whistles, fire boat sprays, and a squawk from Comptroller General Warren that her subsidy was too big.

Exactly what the people who bought tickets on her probably said, except that they thought they were each providing the subsidy alone.

PEOPLE, FOOD AND METALS

The world is filling up, in spite of wars, epidemics and accidents. The birth rate increases in most countries. Furthermore in many parts of the world, the shift is constantly taking place from farm to city, from raising food to industrial labor. In cities, an increasingly large number of persons, particularly women, change their social habits by becoming employed in the service industries, as saleswomen, stenographers, laboratory technicians, nurses, etc.

These shifts of population are not the high standard of living countries; they occur in China and India as in the United States and Great Britain. They not only affect the processes of earning a living but also social relationships, particularly the institution of the family.

Perhaps for a quarter of a million years, man's main business was hunting for his food. The greatest advance, before the current century, was the domestication of plants and animals, perhaps 8,000 or 10,000 years ago. The invention of the tin can, cold storage, vacuum packing and the deep freeze are among the many processes which freed the individual man from the need of hunting and storing food. In recent years, even farmers industrialized themselves into one crop manufacturers and bought their beans in a chain store in the nearest town.

Shelter and clothing have similarly improved, although not as rapidly as the food supply. Shelter somehow has not caught the human imagination at its best, so that housing continues to be wastefully produced not only in big cities but in villages and rural areas. The thatched room and mud hut are vestiges of lack of materials and transportation; but they exist in many parts of the world. The huge tenement of the city imprisons the human being in housing of inadequate sunshine and fresh air. Nevertheless, in spite of two wars and an increased population, more human beings are living in more comfortable homes in the 20th than in the 19th century.

The increase in population of the world during this century has been about one per cent per year. Students of the problem speculate on how many people the earth can take in relation to available acreage for the raising of food. Humphrey Humphreys, of the University of Birmingham, concludes that under present circumstances, the maximum world population could be 8,600,000,000 human beings, which would be nearly four times our present population.

All the figures have one fallacy; they do not relate man to the supply of metals, such as iron-ore, copper, tin, etc. Our civilization materially is built on steel. In the United States, we are rapidly consuming our supply of high grade ore and are beginning large-scale imports of ore from Canada, Chile, Venezuela and other countries. Copper is being imported from other countries. As the metal supply of a nation gives out, the country becomes increasingly dependent upon imports, and unless a way is found to export commodities more than or equal to the imports, the standard of living must go down. This is Great Britain's principal economic trouble at this time.

The National Industrial Conference Board has recently issued a study which shows what can happen to countries. It deals with the work-time required of an individual for him to be able to buy the food that he and his family consume.

Taking the United States as a base, with an index number of 100, the fact appears that it takes an American, who receives the highest wages in the world, less hours of work to gain the purchasing power of food. The comparative figure for Great Britain is 153.8; for West Germany 238.1; for the Netherlands 256.4; for Italy 384.6; for Soviet Russia 555.6. In a word, a Russian has to give more than five times as many work hours to get the same amount of food as an American worker does.

If the population continues to increase, it is likely that food specialists will find means to develop new and superior foods, to improve the strains of grains, vegetables, fruits and edible animals. But they cannot do anything about metals. Once they have been consumed, they are gone, except for the remainders used as scrap. Whether atomic fission and the art of plastics will save us, it is, at this stage, impossible to say.

But this stands out: Two wars and a continuing preparation for war are reducing the metal resources of the United States, forecasting peril to an increasing population.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

FACTS ABOUT MENTAL DISEASES

We learn from a high authoritative source—The National Association for Mental Health, Inc.—that the patients in mental hospitals make up almost half (47 per cent) of all patients in all hospitals in the United States, and this applies in Canada and elsewhere. We thus may wonder if the statement given out a few years ago that within 50 years, at the present rate of increase in mental illness, one half the population of the world would be needed to look after the other half, is not correct. Fortunately, since this statement was made, shock treatment—insulin, metrazol, electric—was discovered and thousands of mental cases are now saved yearly and make a useful contribution to their communities.

Fortunately, also, by the establishments of mental clinics where mentally sick can go for examination and treatment, just as for any ailment of the body, thousands are able to establish themselves to the extent that they can make a gainful living and live at home with no need for hospital care. They and their families thus escape what was formerly the stigma of confinement in a mental institution.

Further, even those who have no mental disease but have not heretofore been able to adjust themselves to the extent of making a living because of deficient mental ability are now receiving mental and physical guidance that enables some of them to make a gainful living and others to be able to look after themselves in hospital and do useful work about the institution.

Further information from the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., is that 30 per cent of all patients who go to general hospitals and 50 per cent of all the patients who go to general physicians are suffering from mental illness and other personaity disturbances, or physical illnesses with mental illness.

As we ponder over the above information we naturally think that mental illness is increasing at a rapid rate, but this is not necessarily the case. "The indications are that population growth, increased life span, more widespread recognition of illness and greater availability of hospitals are largely responsible for the increase."

However, we finish on an encouraging note because the chances of partial or total recovery from the most common of the serious mental illnesses—schizophrenia—have nearly doubled in the past 25 years due to the advance in knowledge and treatment of mental cases.

The Two-Party System, We Fear, Is Here for Good

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Teddy and one of the rulers of Washington society, is either getting benign or else has fallen for the Eisenhower charm.

After Willkie was nominated, Alice remarked, "he sprang from the grass-roots of the country clubs of America."

After Dewey was nominated, she cracked: "How can you vote for a man who looks like a bridegroom on a wedding cake?"

Both men had defeated Mrs. Longworth's close friend, Bob Taft. But of the man who defeated Taft for the third time, Alice is more tolerant.

"Naturally, I am sorry that Bob didn't make it," she tells friends. "But that's the way it was and I am willing to accept it."

She admitted that she watched the Eisenhower demonstration. "But," she added, "conventions aren't what they used to be. Television is spoiling them."

Why Summerfield Switched

Though the Democrats probably got more publicity focused on their hectic backstage wire-pulling than the Republicans, some of the latter's deals are just coming to the surface.

One of them, sure to be denied, sheds light on why Arthur Summerfield of Michigan, long a vigorous Taft supporter, switched over to Eisenhower. Summerfield, a Chevrolet dealer, was under heavy pressure from General Motors to switch. But there was more to it than that—according to the story told by Summerfield's close friend, Congressman Jesse Wolcott of Michigan.

Wolcott says that during the GOP discussion over seating the southern delegates, he got a frantic phone call from Summerfield to come to Chicago immediately.

Arriving in Chicago, Summerfield told him he was being pressured by Tom Coleman, GOP leader in Wisconsin and Taft's floor manager, to back Taft. He was also under pressure from Senator Ferguson and Congressman Schafer of Michigan, likewise vigorous Taft boosters.

On the other hand, General Motors, for whom he operated a dealership, demanded that he support Eisenhower.

Job in Ike's Cabinet

Therefore, he asked Wolcott to act as a buffer—a sort of mediator in deciding the seating of the southern delegates.

He also told Wolcott that, in return for supporting Ike, he had been promised the right to fill one spot in the Eisenhower cabinet, and he had chosen the Treasury Department. His choice for secretary of the treasury, he said, would be Congressman Wolcott.

In relating this to friends, Wolcott has said that he did not feel qualified to be secretary of the treasury, though he was glad to help Summerfield out, and did so.

His help came when Summerfield, after listening to the Georgia delegates present their case, remarked that he wanted his friend Congressman Wolcott to pass on the merits of the matter. Whereupon Wolcott recommended a vote with the Eisenhower group. This helped to take the heat off Summerfield, also showed that at least one prominent Michigan congressman was in Summerfield's corner.

In the end, it will be recalled that Summerfield switched Michigan's big block of votes to Eisenhower, despite the fact that at the Michigan state convention he had worked to block Eisenhower.

Note—Summerfield has already been rewarded by appointment as GOP national chairman. It will be interesting to see whether he gets the selection of a man for secretary of the treasury too.

Stevenson's Sons

While Governor Stevenson was hanging back on the Chicago draft, his sons were doing their best to push the draft.

One day, youngest son John Fell Stevenson turned up at the draft-Stevenson headquarters at the Hilton Hotel wearing a "We Need Adlai Badly" button as big as a flying saucer. Immediately Dr. Walter Johnson, University of Chicago professor who masterminded the draft, grabbed him by the arm, pulled him into a room, and told him that if he wanted to upset the draft this was the best way to do it. Young Stevenson departed.

Shortly thereafter, second son Borden Stevenson with some young friends, arrived, all wearing Stevenson buttons. This time, Johnson took them to the back stairway of the hotel and walked them most of the way to the ground floor, for fear they would be seen by the press.

"Can't we even come into the hotel?" asked one of the boys.

"Only if you go to Harriman or Russell headquarters," replied Johnson. "And only if you take off those buttons."

He knew that if the newspapers showed the Stevenson boys as part of the draft movement, either the public would think it was a phony draft, or the governor would get mad and call the whole thing off.

War Prisoners

The inside story of the bogged-down Korean truce talks is that we have been impaled on our own figures—figures that we issued boastfully at the time we were capturing Communists and wanted to impress the enemy.

We announced to the world last December, for instance, that we held 20,699 Chinese. But now we have told the truce negotiators that all we can turn back is 6,400 This is chiefly because the balance of the Chinese don't want to go back.

With North Korean prisoners, however, some of our army people padded the figures by including some South Korean refugees with the North Korean prisoners. Now, having announced them, they are stuck with those figures. The Reds won't believe anything else.

Though an impression got out through the press that we were only 9,000 prisoners apart in reaching an agreement, this is not exactly true.

At the start of the talks, we estimated that about 101,000 prisoners could be returned. After careful screening, however, we said only 72,000 could go back.

Meanwhile, the Communists demanded the return of 116,000. Later we pushed our figure up to 85,000, while they brought their figure down to 110,000. That's as close as we have ever come.

While the Reds' offer of 110,000 was only 9,000 more than our original estimate of 101,000, it is still 27,000 more than we are willing to return.

That's exactly where the truce talks are today. Another full-dress session is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 3.

Today in Washington

Campaigns Are Not Expected to Begin Before September, Although Speeches Will Be Made

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 1—The presidential campaign will not become active until September. Both candidates have been advised that, with television and radio, in a long campaign they can easily wear themselves out both as to faces and voices and that the short and intensive type of effort is much to be preferred this year to the long-drawn-out pattern of other presidential years.

This doesn't mean that speech-making will be omitted during August. Now and then speeches will be made, but the touring and cross-country speaking trips will not materialize until the last six weeks of the campaign. In all probability both Governor Stevenson and General Eisenhower will make transcontinental journeys.

It is significant that, nothwithstanding the television and radio coverage, the candidates will attempt to visit as many states as possible. This is because, despite recent inventions, the people like to see in person the prominent men of the campaign.

Another reason for deferring the intensive part of the campaign till September is that much preliminary work has yet to be done by each candidate. The organization of a national headquarters, with a staff to devote its time to special phases of the campaign, is something that takes up a lot of the candidate's attention at the very start.

Right now each candidate is being given advice on what kind of strategy to pursue. The theory that all a nominee has to do is attack the other fellow has not proved successful. Affirmative expression of doctrine is as important as attack on the opposite party.

This campaign is unique because it is the first one in 24 years in which a President of the United States has not been on one or the other of the two major party tickets. This has been a disadvantage in some respects to the candidate who has been opposing a president, as the latter always gets better attention because of the prestige of his office. But it is also a disadvantage to the nominee who is running on the ticket of a retiring president because he is usually not as familiar with the points of attack made against the existing administration as the president himself would be.

Governor Stevenson will enjoy the unique advantage or disadvantage—it remains to be seen which it is—of having the incumbent President go on the stump for him. The governor has hinted that he will control the extent of Mr. Truman's participation. Just what this means is not clear, for obviously the Illinois governor would not wish it to be inferred that he thinks Mr. Truman's presence in some states would be politically injurious. Perhaps he had the south in mind, for a Truman stumping trip in that area would inflame the southerners rather than win them to enthusiastic support of the Democratic ticket.

But there is no reason why President Truman shouldn't express himself freely no matter how few speeches he is asked to make. For, after all, Mr. Stevenson and the Democratic platform lauded the Truman record to the skies, and it will be embarrassing for the nominee to imply that he doesn't think this enthusiasm was warranted.

There are some observers who are saying already that Governor Stevenson intends to disassociate himself from the Truman policies in order to win independent Republican votes. But, if he does, he may cause a stay-at-home vote in other Democratic areas. The "civil rights" question is a case in point. The more Mr. Truman argues that the 1952 plank on civil rights means as much as the 1948 plank, the more controversy he stirs up.

Senator Willis Robertson, the very able junior senator from Virginia, has just announced he will support Governor Stevenson because he thinks the 1952 platform plank on "civil rights" is less objectionable than the one adopted by the 1948 convention. Sooner or later these variations in meaning will have to be cleared up and, when that occurs, either President Truman will have to become the object of a bit of "thought control" in order to preserve harmony in the party or else he will have to avoid mentioning subjects that could lose votes for Governor Stevenson. One imagines, for instance, that President Truman will not discuss "inherent powers" such as he exercised when he seized the steel industry and one imagines the President will not argue that the Taft-Hartley Act should be "repealed" now that Governor Stevenson says it should be "rewritten" instead of repealed.

It takes time to straighten out all these things before the campaign really opens in September, and that's what they will be doing in August.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, July 31—I am in debt to Thomas James Norton, a constitutional lawyer and an expert on the true meaning and the distortions of our constitution, for a vigorous reminder of the original and only authentic method of electing presidents of the United States. I offer acknowledgment to Kirby W. Patterson, also a lawyer, for a proposal looking toward a reformation whose need was shockingly revealed in the Chicago conventions.

Mr. Norton is the author of three noted works on the constitution. The first, "The Constitution of the United States," written in 1922, has had a circulation of 500,000 copies. The second, "Losing Liberty Judicially," an examination of "prohibitory and kindred laws," came out in 1928. Last winter, I made inquiries in England and found alarming corroboration of the theme of this book and of John T. Flynn's warning against the program of Americans for Democratic Action and other socialistic conspiracies which work by paralyzing the citizen's senses with opiate "benefits."

Flynn's book is called "The Road Ahead." The fury of the abuse which immediately descended on me from New York sources for pointing out the manner in which the decadent British Parliament had handed over to hidden bureaus power to punish British citizens for violating "regulations" cooked up by those bureaus proved to me that ADA and the British Marxian party, politely called the Labor party, and the international Dubinsky organization in Europe were working together.

This is obviously an international scheme with at least three co-ordinate fronts. One I have just noted. The next is the so-called free labor movement on continental Europe run by Jay Lovestone, formerly chief of the American Communist Party, and one Irving Brown, a mock bucko mate with a synthetic reputation as an old 'varsity athlete at New York U. Brown never had any renown in sport at NYU but he does turn up in the records of the Communist movement as an advocate of Marxian revolution by violent means. The difference between a Communist and a violent revolutionary Marxist is one of jurisdiction. Lovestone apparently has never officially ceased to be a Communist. He just broke with the Browder Communist organization.

Lovestone and Brown are, as I have written, acknowledged agents of the Dubinsky organization in Europe. Brown worked for Dubinsky's garment workers union in New York for years as a director of "education." Incidentally, Meyer Zolotareff, the "labor" editor of the Chicago Herald-American and a friendly intimate of many union bosses, reports that Dubinsky called on Adlai Stevenson the day of his nomination and remarked that Stevenson was "just the thing this country needs."

On a third front, Ida Klaus, a niece of Dubinsky, is an American functionary in the International Labor Office in Geneva. This is a relic of the old League of Nations and now a part of the United Nations. She is also counsel for the Labor Relations Board. So Dubinsky has quite a network here and abroad.

Mr. Norton's third book, and the pertinent one in the present case, is called "undermining the Constitution: A History of Lawless Government." It was published by Devin-Adair, of New York, in 1950.

I earnestly commend this book to all persons with the intelligence and conscience to strive against the destruction of the Constitution by the highly intelligent but unscrupulous men and women who prevailed at both conventions.

There is now up for propaganda a sinister proposal for election of presidents by direct primary. This is approved by the New York Times, a radical New Deal paper, which has wielded a mysterious power over the American occupation administration of Germany ever since victory. As Mr. Norton points out, probably to the surprise of many Americans, our Constitution does not provide for

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 1, 1952

EISENHOWER'S STATE

For the second time Kansas, as Eisenhower's home state, is in the presidential spotlight. In 1936 her favorite son, Gov. Alfred Landon, was the Republican nominee.

It is now plain that Landon was chosen because of the small field from which to pick. In 1934 the only Republican victors were Landon, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, and Gov. Harry W. Nice of Maryland. Vandenberg would not let his name be considered, and Nice did not impress himself on the nation. He received a number of votes for the 1936 vice-presidential nomination, which went to Frank Knox of Illinois. There remained only the outstanding Republican senator, William E. Borah of Idaho, who was passed up because of his record as a lone wolf, and Landon. Landon did not make a strong race, carrying only Maine and Vermont, and losing Kansas to FDR. Eisenhower is the first Kansan nominated since then.

For a state originally in the public eye as much as Kansas, she has not played so great a part politically as the talents of her sons have warranted. In the 1850's the efforts of the South to bring her into the Union as a slave state caused local civil war, giving her the name of "bleeding Kansas." Since then, until Landon's day her leading figures were Charles Curtis, senator for many years and vice president under Hoover, and John J. Ingalls, senator from 1873 to 1891.

Ingalls, a sharp-tongued and highly conservative Republican, best remembered for his comment that, "the purification of politics is an iridescent dream," and his satirical description of Delaware, with whose senators he was at odds, "a state with two counties when the tide is in and three when it is out."

Perhaps Kansas will now come in for a new period of prominence.

GOOD MAN GONE

The United States lost a valuable public servant with the death of Senator Brian McMahon of Connecticut. At 48 McMahon had risen to a place of prominence in the Senate and in the Democratic Party. He was head of the joint Senate-House atomic energy committee and his name was placed in nomination in the Democratic convention in Chicago as his state's favorite son candidate for the presidency.

Senators who have served in the last ten years have faced a unique problem. The new position of world leadership occupied by the United States and the terrible responsibility that goes with being custodian of the atomic bomb has forced most legislators to revise their thinking. McMahon who was first elected to the Senate in 1944 made a constant effort to do just that.

McMahon called for disarmament on several occasions but when it became apparent that Russia would not cooperate he worked energetically to speed up America's defense effort. His critics may question the effectiveness of some of his political judgments but few ever doubted the sincerity of his purpose. Senator Brian McMahon was one of the first legislators who had to concern himself with the great problems of a new age born in the shadow of exploding atom bombs.

SEEK TRUCK LOAD REDUCTION

For the second successive year, the State Rural Letter Carriers Association, seeking protection of the roads from heavy trucks, called for a sharp reduction in the state's allowable truck loads. The mailmen urged the state to lower its truck load limit per axle to 18,000 pounds to reduce the damage our roads suffer from the loads now permitted. New York currently permits truck loads as high as 22,400 pounds per axle.

The New York ceiling is higher than the limit set in 40 other states and is 4,400 pounds higher than the limit recommended by the American Association of State Highway Officials.

PEOPLE, FOOD AND METALS

The world is filling up, in spite of wars, epidemics and accidents. The birth rate increases in most countries. Furthermore in many parts of the world, the shift is constantly taking place from farm to city, from raising food to industrial labor. In cities, an increasingly large number of persons, particularly women, change their social habits by becoming employed in the service industries, as saleswomen, stenographers, laboratory technicians, nurses, etc.

These shifts of population are not the high standard of living countries; they occur in China and India as in the United States and Great Britain. They not only affect the processes of earning a living but also social relationships, particularly the institution of the family.

Perhaps for a quarter of a million years, man's main business was hunting for his food. The greatest advance, before the current century, was the domestication of plants and animals, perhaps 8,000 or 10,000 years ago. The invention of the tin can, cold storage, vacuum packing and the deep freeze are among the many processes which freed the individual man from the need of hunting and storing food. In recent years, even farmers industrialized themselves into one crop manufacturers and bought their beans in a chain store in the nearest town.

Shelter and clothing have similarly improved, although not as rapidly as the food supply. Shelter somehow has not caught the human imagination at its best, so that housing continues to be wastefully produced not only in big cities but in villages and rural areas. The thatched room and mud hut are vestiges of lack of materials and transportation; but they exist in many parts of the world. The huge tenement of the city imprisons the human being in housing of inadequate sunshine and fresh air. Nevertheless, in spite of two wars and an increased population, more human beings are living in more comfortable homes in the 20th than in the 19th century.

The increase in population of the world during this century has been about one per cent per year. Students of the problem speculate on how many people the earth can take in relation to available acreage for the raising of food. Humphrey Humphreys, of the University of Birmingham, concludes that under present circumstances, the maximum world population could be 8,600,000,000 human beings, which would be nearly four times our present population.

All the figures have one fallacy; they do not relate man to the supply of metals, such as iron-ore, copper, tin, etc. Our civilization materially is built on steel. In the United States, we are rapidly consuming our supply of high grade ore and are beginning large-scale imports of ore from Canada, Chile, Venezuela and other countries. Copper is being imported from other countries. As the metal supply of a nation gives out, the country becomes increasingly dependent upon imports, and unless a way is found to export commodities more than or equal to the imports, the standard of living must go down. This is Great Britain's principal economic trouble at this time.

The National Industrial Conference Board has recently issued a study which shows what can happen to countries. It deals with the work-time required of an individual for him to be able to buy the food that he and his family consume.

Taking the United States as a base, with an index number of 100, the fact appears that it takes an American, who receives the highest wages in the world, less hours of work to gain the purchasing power of food. The comparative figure for Great Britain is 153.8; for West Germany 238.1; for the Netherlands 256.4; for Italy 384.6; for Soviet Russia 555.6. In a word, a Russian has to give more than five times as many work hours to get the same amount of food as an American worker does.

If the population continues to increase, it is likely that food specialists will find means to develop new and superior foods, to improve the strains of grains, vegetables, fruits and edible animals. But they cannot do anything about metals. Once they have been consumed, they are gone, except for the remainders used as scrap. Whether atomic fission and the art of plastics will save us, it is, at this stage, impossible to say.

But this stands out: Two wars and a continuing preparation for war are reducing the metal resources of the United States, forecasting peril to an increasing population.

That Body of Yours

FACTS ABOUT MENTAL DISEASES

We learn from a high authoritative source—The National Association for Mental Health, Inc.—that the patients in mental hospitals make up almost half (47 per cent) of all patients in all hospitals in the United States, and this applies in Canada and elsewhere. We thus may wonder if the statement given out a few years ago that within 50 years, at the present rate of increase in mental illness, one half the population of the world would be needed to look after the other half, is not correct. Fortunately, since this statement was made, shock treatment—insulin, metrazol, electric—was discovered and thousands of mental cases are now saved yearly and make a useful contribution to their communities.

Fortunately, also, by the establishments of mental clinics where mentally sick can go for examination and treatment, just as for any ailment of the body, thousands are able to establish themselves to the extent that they can make a gainful living and live at home with no need for hospital care. They and their families thus escape what was formerly the stigma of confinement in a mental institution.

Further, even those who have no mental disease but have not heretofore been able to adjust themselves to the extent of making a living because of deficient mental ability are now receiving mental and physical guidance that enables some of them to make a gainful living and others to be able to look after themselves in hospital and do useful work about the institution.

Further information from the National Association for Mental Health, Inc., is that 30 per cent of all patients who go to general hospitals and 50 per cent of all the patients who go to general physicians are suffering from mental illness and other personality disturbances, or physical illnesses with mental illness.

As we ponder over the above information we naturally think that mental illness is increasing at a rapid rate, but this is not necessarily the case. "The indications are that population growth, increased life span, more widespread recognition of illness and greater availability of hospitals are largely responsible for the increase."

However, we finish on an encouraging note because the chances of partial or total recovery from the most common of the serious mental illnesses—schizophrenia—have nearly doubled in the past 25 years due to the advance in knowledge and treatment of mental cases.

The Two-Party System, We Fear, Is Here for Good

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Teddy and one of the rulers of Washington society, is either getting benign or else has fallen for the Eisenhower charm.

After Willkie was nominated, Alice remarked, "he sprang from the grass-roots of the country clubs of America."

After Dewey was nominated, she cracked: "How can you vote for a man who looks like a bridegroom on a wedding cake?"

Both men had defeated Mrs. Longworth's close friend, Bob Taft. But of the man who defeated Taft for the third time, Alice is more tolerant.

"Naturally, I am sorry that Bob didn't make it," she tells friends. "But that's the way it was and I am willing to accept it."

She admitted that she watched the Eisenhower demonstration. "But," she added, "conventions aren't what they used to be. Television is spoiling them."

Why Summerfield Switched

Though the Democrats probably got more publicity focused on their hectic backstage wire-pulling than the Republicans, some of the latter's deals are just coming to the surface.

One of them, sure to be denied, sheds light on why Arthur Summerfield of Michigan, long a vigorous Taft supporter, switched over to Eisenhower. Summerfield, a Chevrolet dealer, was under heavy pressure from General Motors to switch. But there was more to it than that—according to the story told by Summerfield's close friend, Congressman Jesse Wolcott of Michigan.

Wolcott says that during the GOP discussion over seating the southern delegates, he got a frantic phone call from Summerfield to come to Chicago immediately.

Arriving in Chicago, Summerfield told him he was being pressured by Tom Coleman, GOP leader in Wisconsin and Taft's floor manager, to back Taft. He was also under pressure from Senator Ferguson and Congressman Schafer of Michigan, likewise vigorous Taft boosters.

On the other hand, General Motors, for whom he operated a dealership, demanded that he support Eisenhower.

Job in Ike's Cabinet

Therefore, he asked Wolcott to act as a buffer—a sort of mediator in deciding the seating of the southern delegates.

He also told Wolcott that, in return for supporting Ike, he had been promised the right to fill one spot in the Eisenhower cabinet, and he had chosen the Treasury Department. His choice for secretary of the treasury, he said, would be Congressman Wolcott.

In relating this to friends, Wolcott has said that he did not feel qualified to be secretary of the treasury, though he was glad to help Summerfield out, and did so.

His help came when Summerfield, after listening to the Georgia delegates present their case, remarked that he wanted his friend Congressman Wolcott to pass on the merits of the matter. Whereupon Wolcott recommended a vote with the Eisenhower group. This helped to take the heat off Summerfield, also showed that at least one prominent Michigan congressman was in Summerfield's corner.

In the end, it will be recalled that Summerfield switched Michigan's big block of votes to Eisenhower, despite the fact that at the Michigan state convention he had worked to block Eisenhower.

Note—Summerfield has already been rewarded by appointment as GOP national chairman. It will be interesting to see whether he gets the selection of a man for secretary of the treasury too.

Stevenson's Sons

While Governor Stevenson was hanging back on the Chicago draft, his sons were doing their best to push the draft.

One day, youngest son John Fell Stevenson turned up at the draft-Stevenson headquarters at the Hilton Hotel wearing a "We Need Adlai Badly" button as big as a flying saucer. Immediately Dr. Walter Johnson, University of Chicago professor who masterminded the draft, grabbed him by the arm, pulled him into a room, and told him that if he wanted to upset the draft this was the best way to do it. Young Stevenson departed.

Shortly thereafter, second son Borden Stevenson with some young friends, arrived, all wearing Stevenson buttons. This time, Johnson took them to the back stairway of the hotel and walked them most of the way to the ground floor, for fear they would be seen by the press.

"Can't we even come into the hotel?" asked one of the boys.

"Only if you go to Harriman or Russell headquarters," replied Johnson. "And only if you take off those buttons."

He knew that if the newspapers showed the Stevenson boys as part of the draft movement, either the public would think it was a phony draft, or the governor would get mad and call the whole thing off.

Campaigns Are Not Expected to Begin Before September, Although Speeches Will Be Made

Just what this means is not clear, for obviously the Illinois governor would not wish it to be inferred that he thinks Mr. Truman's presence in some states would be politically injurious. Perhaps he had the south in mind, for a Truman stumping trip in that area would inflame the southerners rather than win them to enthusiastic support of the Democratic ticket.

But there is no reason why President Truman shouldn't express himself freely no matter how few speeches he is asked to make. For, after all, Mr. Stevenson and the Democratic platform lauded the Truman record to the skies, and it will be embarrassing for the nominee to imply that he doesn't think this enthusiasm was warranted.

There are some observers who are saying already that Governor Stevenson intends to disassociate himself from the Truman policies in order to win independent Republican votes. But, if he does, he may cause a stay-at-home vote in other Democratic areas. The "civil rights" question is a case in point. The more Mr. Truman argues that the 1952 plank on civil rights means as much as the 1948 plank, the more controversy he stirs up.

Senator Willis Robertson, the very able junior senator from Virginia, has just announced he will support Governor Stevenson because he thinks the 1952 platform plank on "civil rights" is less objectionable than the one adopted by the 1948 convention. Sooner or later these variations in meaning will have to be cleared up and, when that occurs, either President Truman will have to become the object of a bit of "thought control" in order to preserve harmony in the party or else he will have to avoid mentioning subjects that could lose votes for Governor Stevenson. One imagines, for instance, that President Truman will not discuss "inherent powers" such as he exercised when he seized the steel industry and one imagines the President will not argue that the Taft-Hartley Act should be "repealed" now that Governor Stevenson says it should be "rewritten" instead of repealed.

It takes time to straighten out all these things before the campaign really opens in September, and that's what they will be doing in August.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, July 31—I am in debt to Thomas James Norton, a constitutional lawyer and an expert on the true meaning and the distortions of our constitution, for a vigorous reminder of the original and only authentic method of electing presidents of the United States. I offer acknowledgment to Kirby W. Patterson, also a lawyer, for a proposal looking toward a reformation whose need was shockingly revealed in the Chicago conventions.

Mr. Norton is the author of three noted works on the constitution. The first, "The Constitution of the United States," written in 1922, has had a circulation of 500,000 copies. The second, "Losing Liberty Judicially," an examination of "prohibitory and kindred laws," came out in 1928. Last winter, I made inquiries in England and found alarming corroboration of the theme of this book and of John T. Flynn's warning against the program of Americans for Democratic Action and other socialistic conspiracies which work by paralyzing the citizen's senses with opiate "benefits."

Flynn's book is called "The Road Ahead." The fury of the abuse which immediately descended on me from New York sources for pointing out the manner in which the decadent British Parliament had handed over to hidden bureaus power to punish British citizens for violating "regulations" cooked up by those bureaus proved to me that ADA and the British Marxian party, politely called the Labor party, and the international Dubinsky organization in Europe were working together.

This is obviously an international scheme with at least three co-ordinate fronts. One I have just noted. The next is the so-called free labor movement on continental Europe run by Jay Lovestone, formerly chief of the American Communist Party, and one Irving Brown, a mock bucko mate with a synthetic reputation as an old 'varsity athlete at New York U. Brown never had any renown in sport at NYU but he does turn up in the records of the Communist movement as an advocate of Marxian revolution by violent means. The difference between a Communist and a violent revolutionary Marxist is one of jurisdiction. Lovestone apparently has never officially ceased to be a Communist. He just broke with the Browder Communist organization.

Lovestone and Brown are, as I have written, acknowledged agents of the Dubinsky organization in Europe. Brown worked for Dubinsky's garment workers union in New York for years as a director of "education." Incidentally, Meyer Zolotareff, the "labor" editor of the Chicago Herald-American and a friendly intimate of many union bosses, reports that Dubinsky called on Adlai Stevenson the day of his nomination and remarked that Stevenson was "just the thing this country needs."

On a third front, Ida Klaus, a niece of Dubinsky, is an American functionary in the International Labor Office in Geneva. This is a relic of the old League of Nations and now a part of the United Nations. She is also counsel for the Labor Relations Board. So Dubinsky has quite a network here and abroad.

Mr. Norton's third book, and the pertinent one in the present case, is called "undermining the Constitution: A History of Lawless Government." It was published by Devin-Adair, of New York, in 1950.

I earnestly commend this book to all persons with the intelligence and conscience to strive against the destruction of the Constitution by the highly intelligent but unscrupulous men and women who prevailed at both conventions.

There is now up for propaganda a sinister proposal for election of presidents by direct primary. This is approved by the New York Times, a radical New Deal paper, which has wielded a mysterious power over the American occupation administration of Germany ever since victory. As Mr. Norton points out, probably to the surprise of many Americans, our Constitution does not provide for

Stone Ridge Houses Are to Be Open for Inspection Saturday

Tour of Pre-Revolutionary Homes Part of Library Fair

Several old stone houses in Stone Ridge will be open for inspection on Saturday afternoon, August 2, as one of the features in connection with the Stone Ridge Library annual fair. At each of the houses will be stationed members of the committee dressed in colonial costume to explain the history in connection with the building and to point out their many interesting features.

All the buildings to be shown are of pre-revolutionary or early nineteen century origin. Among them are "The Sally Tock Inn," now the property of Mrs. E. C. Chadbourne. This building was erected prior to 1750 and was operated as a tavern before the revolution by Johannes Tock, upon his death his widow Sally continued the hostelry. The place soon became widely known as the "Sally Tock Inn" and has continued to be known as such to this day.

It served for a time as the meeting place of the first Ulster County Court which was organized in the year 1778.

One of the upper rooms was long the meeting place of the Stone Ridge Lodge of Masons.

Here was entertained Washington's military family when the General visited the village in 1782.

"The Pine Farm" is one of the oldest houses in this section. This grand old place was built in the middle seventeen hundred by Isaac Hasbrouck, one of the early settlers of the neighborhood who migrated here from New Paltz.

Here still may be seen the hand hewn beams, the old plank flooring, the original fireplace and Dutch oven.

"The Muller House" on Route 209 was for many years known as the "Chambers Place." It was built in 1798 by Dr. Lewis Hasbrouck who later sold the property to Dr. Chambers. It remained in the Chambers family for over one hundred years. The present owner is Mrs. Edward Muller.

Two original fireplaces and beautiful old hardware are among the features to be seen here.

"The Stone Ridge Library" is of typical Dutch design. It is built of locally quarried stone and was erected by Edward Lounsberry in 1770. The property was later sold to Cornelius Hasbrouck and was bequeathed to Julia Hasbrouck Dwight who presented the building to the community for a library in 1908.

The interior of the building is as charmingly rodelent of the past as is its exterior. Passing through the typical two-section door one enters into a spacious entry hall, from where a balistered stairs rises to a turn at the halfway landing. A beautiful tiled fireplace, a priceless Hutch table and a Wag o'the wall clock are among the many items of interest to be seen in this building.

"The Old Parsonage" is a beautiful old building, now owned by Miss Katherine Hasbrouck. It was built in 1812 of stone quarried on the property and was the first parsonage for the Reformed Church of Marbletown. It was lately known as the "Shop in the Garden" when a tea room and gift shop was operated there.

This building is of excellent design and contains many items of beauty and interest.

"The Hasbrouck House"—The exact date this house was built is not known, probably between 1800 and 1820. It came in possession of Benjamin L. Hasbrouck in 1838 and has remained in the family ever since. In 1840 the double porches were added and are unique with this type of construction. The long rear addition was not built until 1892.

Mrs. William F. Hasbrouck the present owner of the original house, came in possession through her late husband who acquired the premises in 1925.

Among the many interesting features of this grand old place are the picket fences and Chinese Chippendale Gate which has been so carefully preserved through the years.

Hostesses in attendance will include the following, Mrs. Allan McCorkel, Mrs. Richard Van Zandt, Mrs. Newkirk Grockett, Mrs. George Bushnell, Mrs. Walter Son, Mrs. Elsa Hart, Mrs. Clarence Hansen, Mrs. Lester Roosa, Mrs. Hollister Sturges, Sr., Mrs. T. J. Whitmarsh, Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. William F. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Lillian Hasbrouck, Mrs. Harry Snyder, Mrs. John Davenport, Mrs. Ross Osterhoudt, Mrs. Elizabeth LoSavio, Miss Anna Budenbach and Miss Katherine Hasbrouck.

Here was the first parsonage for the Reformed Church of Marbletown. It was lately known as the Shop in the Garden. Built in 1812, it is now owned by Miss Katherine Hasbrouck.

The Stevenson Profile

(This last of a five-part series on the life of Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic nominee for president, covers his political appeal, his views on important issues and the people close to him.)

By ROGER F. LANE

Springfield, Ill., July 31 (AP)—Three close associates of Gov. Adlai Stevenson recently were asked separately for capsule explanations of his political magic.

The replies, each reduced to a word, were "humility," "integrity" and "personal charm."

The fact is that Stevenson is a rounded, complex man of diverse appeals.

To the less fortunate among his admirers, he seems a just man who will seek to ease their burdens.

To the strong among them, he is an able, determined man, like themselves.

To the scholarly, he is a man of intellect who quotes St. Francis, Voltaire and Lincoln.

To the party faithful, he is a skilled practitioner of the political art, a popular man—even better, a winner.

The quality that mirrors widely the many facets of his nature is an unusual gift with words, a genius for communicating lucidly what he stands for to all who would know.

Some of His Philosophy

Here is a kernel of his political philosophy as related to a New York audience in telling "the kind of Democrat I am":

"I don't like interference with free markets, free men and free enterprise. I like freedom to succeed or fail. But I also know that there can be no real freedom without economic justice, social justice, equality of opportunity and a fair chance for every individual to make the most of himself.

"I am not worried about ruinous reaction on the one hand or radical misadvantage on the other, because the American individual is a very sensible fellow. . . ."

Some of his expressions on important issues:

Communism—"Communism resolves no anxieties. It multiplies them. It organizes terror. It is without spiritual content or comfort. It provides no basic security. . . .

"If western civilization is to save its body, it must save its soul too. It must awake again the emotionalism, the confidence, the defiant faith of a resolute breed of men to whom liberty and justice mean something positive every day—not just when war has reduced us to the stark issue of self-preservation."

'Far More Subtle'

Inflation—". . . As sinister an enemy as Stalin and far more subtle. . . ."

Religion—"Ours is a time of torment, trial and challenge. . . . In the tense struggle for peace on which rests peace itself, the mighty and mightily neglected power of the verities of religious faith is our shield and sword."

Taxes—"The tax burden in this country is due largely to the national defense effort. I would say that perhaps it is wiser to spend money, even in what appears to be excessive quantities, to buy insurance than it would be to risk war and the cost of rebuilding the house."

Party Principle—"Who leads us is less important than what leads us—what convictions, what courage, what faith—win or lose. A man doesn't save a century, or a civilization, but a militant party wedded to a principle can."

Corruption—"Where we have erred, let there be no denial; where we have wronged the public trust, let there be no excuses. Self-criticism is the secret weapon of democracy, and candor and confession are good for the political soul."

Always a Chain

Public Responsibility—"I should like to point out that public officials don't corrupt each other; that behind every bribe taker in government is a bribe giver, behind every fix is a fixer, behind every influence peddler is someone who wants influence, behind every lobbyist is a pressure group. Who are they? Why, they are 'the people.' And sometimes they are not cheaters and scum, but the same 'respectable' people who demand that all officials in a government by the governed should be cleaner than the governed, cleaner than themselves."

Asian Policy — "Desperately poor, struggling to shake off the shackles of white colonialism, Asia is just now passing through the era of revolution, independence and self-determination that swept the western world long ago.

Will Take Patience

"It will take great patience, great insight, great restring * * * to win confidence and faith in the great uncommitted areas of Asia. It can't be done with the white man's sword."

States Rights—"It must not be forgotten that the states are the source of all federal sovereignty. They are the creators, not the created. The federal government was brought into being by them to serve their ends—not as an end itself * * *.

"I deplore the tendency of states to abdicate their responsibilities * * *".

Some observers regard Stevenson's divorce as a political liability. They differ as to the extent of its effect on voters.

In 1949, Mrs. Stevenson obtained a Nevada divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty. The decree dissolved a marriage that lasted 21 years.

Her testimony was not made public. In Springfield, Stevenson blamed "the incompatability of our lives" for the divorce action.

He did not contest the suit, although he said he was "deeply distressed" and opposed divorce in general.

Mrs. Stevenson refused comment on reports that she disliked her public role as Illinois' first lady.

After the divorce, she devoted considerable time to her interest in modern poetry. Stevenson rented out his 71 acre farm 40 miles northwest of Chicago. Neither has remarried.

Stevenson credits his record as governor to the men around him.

BABSON on BUSINESS

BABSON DISCUSSES POLITICS

Babson Park, Mass., Aug. 1—The Republican Party in its convention at Chicago selected its candidate for President of the United States. The Democratic Party in its convention also at Chicago has selected its candidate for president. The candidates of either party will not be acceptable to millions of voters. The National election that will be held on November 4, 1952, will select one of the candidates to be President of the United States. The President elected will not be the choice of millions of voters—BUT!

After the majority of the voters have elected the man to be president, the cooperation of every individual in the United States will be necessary to insure our Democratic way of life and our economic independence. The new president, no matter of which party, is under obligation, on account of the present emergencies, to make use of the best brains in either of the leading parties. Members of the Cabinet and heads of the various agencies of the government should be selected for their ability to handle the particular position, regardless of party affiliation.

The intellect and ability of defeated candidates should not be wasted because they belong to the other party. A cooperative administration is the best method of meeting the international situation, the taxation problem, the national debt, and the employee-employer relationship and the other serious problems that will confront the new President. This is the time for all good people to come to the aid of whoever is elected to insure our economic and political freedom.

Foundation of Society

The village, the state, the nation are all the result of cooperation. The very term "The United States of America" signifies the cooperative basis of our national existence. Back in tribal days the right to hold was the right of might. All tribes were natural enemies. Not until men learned to trust each other—cooperate—did estates arise. Not until capital and labor learned to cooperate did the factory system arise. Not until capital learned to cooperate with other capital did big business enterprises arise.

Men in all walks of life must learn to cooperate with and trust each other in order that the brotherhood of man may arise.

In 1945 John Stuart Mill, the famius economist, announced the principle that "growth in the capacity for and practice in the habit of cooperation, is the surest test of advancing civilization." Newton D. Baker, when he was secretary of war under President Wilson said to me: "Mr. Babson, you are interested in business barometers, let me give you the result of my years of experience. It is this: the best barometer of a nation's future is the ability of the people to cooperate and to have confidence in their leaders."

Need of Religion

Our progress and growth in this life is bounded on all sides by something. On the north, we are bounded by the Multiplication Table, to make us exact as to facts. On the east, we are bounded by the Ten Commandments to guide us into paths of righteousness. On the south, we are bounded by the Law of Gravity that keeps our feet on the ground; and on the west we are bounded by the setting sun that marks the limits of our day. But the field of cooperation is unbounded. If we carry on, obedient to the laws of God and man, we will enjoy that freedom which comes with the Brotherhod of Man.

What the world needs today is cooperation in every walk of life—in religion, government, politics, business, finance, and labor relations. Cooperation is the basis of the Golden Rule, and similarly it is the basis of prosperity. The President who will be elected this coming November will face the most serious problems. It will be up to us to cooperate with him, and up to him to cooperate with us.

Restaurant Closes

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Sherry's Restaurant at 300 Park avenue closed its doors yesterday. Sherry's and its predecessor restaurants founded by the late Louis Sherry conducted fashionable parties for several generations of New Yorkers. The 14-story, block-long building housing the restaurant and catering business, opposite the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, is to be torn down to make way for a new office building.

Keep your iron clean by rubbing it with wax or paraffin occasionally.

"The Old Parsonage" is a beautiful old building, now owned by Miss Katherine Hasbrouck. It was built in 1812 of stone quarried on the property and was the first parsonage for the Reformed Church of Marbletown. It was lately known as the "Shop in the Garden" when a tea room and gift shop was operated there.

This building is of excellent design and contains many items of beauty and interest.

"The Hasbrouck House"—The exact date this house was built is not known, probably between 1800 and 1820. It came in posession of Benjamin L. Hasbrouck in 1838 and has remained in the family ever since. In 1840 the double porches were added and are unique with this type of construction. The long rear addition was not built until 1892.

Mrs. William F. Hasbrouck the present owner of the original house, came in possession through her late husband who acquired the premises in 1925.

Among the many interesting features of this grand old place are the picket fences and Chinese Chippendale Gate which has been so carefully preserved through the years.

Hostesses in attendance will include the following Mrs. Allan McCorkel, Mrs. Richard Van Zandt, Mrs. Newkirk Grockett, Mrs. George Bushnell, Mrs. Walter Son, Mrs. Elsa Hart, Mrs. Clarence Hansen, Mrs. Lester Roosa, Mrs. Hollister Sturges, Sr., Mrs. T. J. Whitmarsh, Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. William F. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Lillian Hasbrouck, Mrs. Harry Snyder, Mrs. John Davenport, Mrs. Ross Osterhoudt, Mrs. Elizabeth LoSavio, Miss Anna Budenbach and Miss Katherine Hasbrouck.

Here was the first parsonage for the Reformed Church of Marbletown. It was lately known as the Shop in the Garden. Built in 1812, it is now owned by Miss Katherine Hasbrouck.

This is the Sally Tock Inn, which was erected prior to 1750 and operated as a tavern before the revolution. It is owned by Mrs. E. C. Chadbourne.

The Pine Farm is one of the oldest homes in this section, having been built by Isaac Hasbrouck about 1750.

This home came in possession of the Hasbrouck family in 1838 and has remained in the family ever since. Features here include the picket fences and Chinese Chippendale gate, which have been carefully preserved.

The Stone Ridge Library was built by Edward Lounsbery in 1770 and is of typical Dutch design.

The Stevenson Profile

(This last of a five-part series on the life of Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic nominee for president, covers his political appeal, his views on important issues and the people close to him.)

By ROGER F. LANE

Springfield, Ill., July 31 (AP)—Three close associates of Gov. Adlai Stevenson recently were asked separately for capsule explanations of his political magic.

The replies, each reduced to a word, were "humility," "integrity" and "personal charm."

The fact is that Stevenson is a rounded, complex man of diverse appeals.

To the less fortunate among his admirers, he seems a just man who will seek to ease their burdens.

To the strong among them, he is an able, determined man, like themselves.

To the scholarly, he is a man of intellect who quotes St. Francis, Voltaire and Lincoln.

To the party faithful, he is a skilled practitioner of the political art, a popular man—even better, a winner.

The quality that mirrors widely the many facets of his nature is an unusual gift with words, a genius for communicating lucidly what he stands for to all who would know.

Some of His Philosophy

Here is a kernel of his political philosophy as related to a New York audience in telling "the kind of Democrat I am":

"I don't like interference with free markets, free men and free enterprise. I like freedom to succeed or fail. But I also know that there can be no real freedom without economic justice, social justice, equality of opportunity and a fair chance for every individual to make the most of himself.

"I am not worried about ruinous reaction on the one hand or radical misadvantage on the other, because the American individual is a very sensible fellow. . . ."

Some of his expressions on important issues:

Communism—"Communism resolves no anxieties. It multiplies them. It organizes terror. It is without spiritual content or comfort. It provides no basic security. . . .

"If western civilization is to save its body, it must save its soul too. It must awake again the emotionalism, the confidence, the defiant faith of a resolute breed of men to whom liberty and justice mean something positive every day—not just when war has reduced us to the stark issue of self-preservation."

'Far More Subtle'

Inflation—". . . As sinister an enemy as Stalin and far more subtle. . . ."

Religion—"Ours is a time of torment, trial and challenge. . . . In the tense struggle for peace on which rests peace itself, the mighty and mightily neglected power of the verities of religious faith is our shield and sword."

Taxes—"The tax burden in this country is due largely to the national defense effort. I would say that perhaps it is wiser to spend money, even in what appears to be excessive quantities, to buy insurance than it would be to risk war and the cost of rebuilding the house."

Party Principle—"Who leads us is less important than what leads us—what convictions, what courage, what faith—win or lose. A man doesn't save a century, or a civilization, but a militant party wedded to a principle can."

Corruption—"Where we have erred, let there be no denial; where we have wronged the public trust, let there be no excuses. Self-criticism is the secret weapon of democracy, and candor and confession are good for the political soul."

Always a Chain

Public Responsibility—"I should like to point out that public officials don't corrupt each other; that behind every bribe taker in government is a bribe giver, behind every fix is a fixer, behind every influence peddler is someone who wants influence, behind every lobbyist is a pressure group. Who are they? Why, they are 'the people.' And sometimes they are not cheaters and scum, but the same 'respectable' people who demand that all officials in a government by the governed should be cleaner than the governed, cleaner than themselves."

Asian Policy — "Desperately poor, struggling to shake off the shackles of white colonialism, Asia is just now passing through the era of revolution, independence and self-determination that swept the western world long ago.

Will Take Patience

"It will take great patience, great insight, great restring * * * to win confidence and faith in the great uncommitted areas of Asia. It can't be done with the white man's sword."

States Rights—"It must not be forgotten that the states are the source of all federal sovereignty. They are the creators, not the created. The federal government was brought into being by them to serve their ends—not as an end itself * * *.

"I deplore the tendency of states to abdicate their responsibilities * * *".

Some observers regard Stevenson's divorce as a political liability. They differ as to the extent of its effect on voters.

In 1949, Mrs. Stevenson obtained a Nevada divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty. The decree dissolved a marriage that lasted 21 years.

Her testimony was not made public. In Springfield, Stevenson blamed "the incompatability of our lives" for the divorce action.

He did not contest the suit, although he said he was "deeply distressed" and opposed divorce in general.

Mrs. Stevenson refused comment on reports that she disliked her public role as Illinois' first lady.

After the divorce, she devoted considerable time to her interest in modern poetry. Stevenson rented out his 71 acre farm 40 miles northwest of Chicago. Neither has remarried.

Stevenson credits his record as governor to the men around him.

Restaurant Closes

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Sherry's Restaurant at 300 Park avenue closed its doors yesterday. Sherry's and its predecessor restaurants founded by the late Louis Sherry conducted fashionable parties for several generations of New Yorkers. The 14-story, block-long building housing the restaurant and catering business, opposite the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, is to be torn down to make way for a new office building.

BABSON on BUSINESS

BABSON DISCUSSES POLITICS

Babson Park, Mass., Aug. 1—The Republican Party in its convention at Chicago selected its candidate for President of the United States. The Democratic Party in its convention also at Chicago has selected its candidate for president. The candidates of either party will not be acceptable to millions of voters. The National election that will be held on November 4, 1952, will select one of the candidates to be President of the United States. The President elected will not be the choice of millions of voters—BUT!

After the majority of the voters have elected the man to be president, the cooperation of every individual in the United States will be necessary to insure our Democratic way of life and our economic independence. The new president, no matter of which party, is under obligation, on account of the present emergencies, to make use of the best brains in either of the leading parties. Members of the Cabinet and heads of the various agencies of the government should be selected for their ability to handle the particular position, regardless of party affiliation.

The intellect and ability of defeated candidates should not be wasted because they belong to the other party. A cooperative administration is the best method of meeting the international situation, the taxation problem, the national debt, and the employee-employer relationship and the other serious problems that will confront the new President. This is the time for all good people to come to the aid of whoever is elected to insure our economic and political freedom.

Foundation of Society

The village, the state, the nation are all the result of cooperation. The very term "The United States of America" signifies the cooperative basis of our national existence. Back in tribal days the right to hold was the right of might. All tribes were natural enemies. Not until men learned to trust each other—cooperate—did estates arise. Not until capital and labor learned to cooperate did the factory system arise. Not until capital learned to cooperate with other capital did big business enterprises arise.

Men in all walks of life must learn to cooperate with and trust each other in order that the brotherhood of man may arise.

In 1945 John Stuart Mill, the famius economist, announced the principle that "growth in the capacity for and practice in the habit of cooperation, is the surest test of advancing civilization." Newton D. Baker, when he was secretary of war under President Wilson said to me: "Mr. Babson, you are interested in business barometers, let me give you the result of my years of experience. It is this: the best barometer of a nation's future is the ability of the people to cooperate and to have confidence in their leaders."

Need of Religion

Our progress and growth in this life is bounded on all sides by something. On the north, we are bounded by the Multiplication Table, to make us exact as to facts. On the east, we are bounded by the Ten Commandments to guide us into paths of righteousness. On the south, we are bounded by the Law of Gravity that keeps our feet on the ground; and on the west we are bounded by the setting sun that marks the limits of our day. But the field of cooperation is unbounded. If we carry on, obedient to the laws of God and man, we will enjoy that freedom which comes with the Brotherhod of Man.

What the world needs today is cooperation in every walk of life—in religion, government, politics, business, finance, and labor relations. Cooperation is the basis of the Golden Rule, and similarly it is the basis of prosperity. The President who will be elected this coming November will face the most serious problems. It will be up to us to cooperate with him, and up to him to cooperate with us.

President Woodrow Wilson had been asked to receive a group of Irish-American leaders who wished to present a paper. He had consented to do so, with the proviso that Daniel F. Cohalan should not accompany them. During the war Cohalan had been a great disturber. Nevertheless the committee had shown up, headed by Cohalan. Secretary Tumulty was urging the Present to relent. "Oh, Governor," he pleaded, "this will make a terrible impression on his followers." Cohalan was an influential political leader.

The President took out his watch. "That's just what I wanted it to do, Tumulty; but I think it will make a good impression on decent people."

Things don't turn up in this world until somebody turns them up.—Garfield.

Cashier—Boss, I'm kept awake night after night by a terrible pain in the neck. What do you suggest?

Manager—Send him home early and then call me.

The reason one person can make so much trouble is that so many persons help him make it.

Interested Lady—You'd have more chance of getting a job if you shaved, and cleaned your clothes neatly, and had your hair cut.

Hobo—I know it, lady, I know it. I found that out years ago.

In their bathing suits, many girls remind you of a bad photo. They're underdeveloped and overexposed.

After the girl's boy friend had departed, her father called her into the library.

Father—Daughter, your young man asked for your hand again and I finally consented.

Daughter—But father, I just can't leave mother.

Father—That suits me fine. Take her with you.

Dill—He has a head like a doorknob.

TORTURERS UNAWARE!

A letter today explains: "I'm convinced that my next door neighbors are hard of hearing. At least they must be to keep their television set on so loud. It is annoying enough during the day, but when they keep it on full blast at night after we have gone to bed, it is doubly annoying. Have you any suggestions for remedying this situation? I had thought of writing an anonymous letter. What do you think of this idea?"

No, don't write anonymously! (It is always a cowardly thing to do). But you might write in your own name—saying that you are sure they don't know how very loud it is; that your husband is losing his sleep and you are very troubled. Let us hope that they are well-bred people who will either turn down the loud speaker or sit in another room. (If not, you can make a complaint to the police on the ground that they are disturbing the peace. An unpleasant move to have to make, but on occasion necessary).

For Boy Friend's Birthday

Dear Mrs. Post: I am seventeen years old and have been going with a boy for the past eight months. He has a birthday coming in two weeks and I had planned on giving him a sterling silver identification bracelet as he will be going into the army soon. Mother does not think this is a proper present for me to give. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: I don't like to take sides against your mother—but I wonder if she looks upon this gift as a "piece of jewelry" (and for that reason disapproves). Perhaps if she can agree that it is a very impersonal item of utility she might withdraw her objection. If not, ask her what she thinks would be best, and if you agree so much the better.

Broken Engagement

Dear Mrs. Post: About three months ago my fiance and I broke our engagement. It was entirely my idea. However since I have not been seeing him I am finding out how much I miss him and that I am really in love with him. Would it be proper for me to call him, or write him, and tell him so?

Answer: Although it would be the one and only thing to do to bring him back—you must realize that you will put yourself in a very unenviable situation if he has written "finished" at the end of his love for you! That is the chance you have to take! But I think it is the right one for you and I hope for him too.

Defense Is Planned In Tourney Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the advantages of playing against experts in a national tournament is that you know what to expect in the way of defense. You can't afford to base your campaign on the hope that the opponents will blunder if you can find any more reasonable line of play.

In the hand shown today, played by Samuel M. Stayman in last year's championship, the winning line of play is very hard to find. West opened the jack of spades, and Stayman played low from the dummy. East won with the king of spades and returned the suit in order to knock out the entry to dummy's long diamonds.

Declarer led a low diamond from dummy and played the king from his own hand, hoping, but not expecting, that the opponents would take the ace at once. When East played low and West carefully played the deuce of diamonds, Stayman realized that the suit could not be brought in.

West's play of the deuce of diamonds indicated that he held exactly three cards in the suit. (With two, or four, diamonds West would play high-low instead of following suit with his lowest diamond.)

	♠ A 4
	♦ Q J 10 9 3
	♣ 5 4 2
WEST		EAST
♠ J 10 9 7		♠ K 8 3
♥ Q 10 5 4		♥ J 9 3
♦ 5 4 2		♦ A 8 6
♣ J 10		♣ 9 8 7 3
	SOUTH (D)
	♠ Q 6 5 2
	♥ A K 6
	♦ K 7
	♣ A K Q 6

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
2 N. T.	Pass	3 N. T.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ J

Against ordinary players declarer might lead another diamond in the hope that the player with the ace would hold off once more. Since this could not be expected of experts, Stayman looked for a better plan.

After some thought he found a way to make his contract. Just for the fun of it, look the hand over carefully and see if you can find the right line of play.

Stayman led a low heart from his hand. East won with the nine of hearts, cashed the ace of diamonds, and led his last spade. South won with the queen. Now Stayman hopefully cashed the top hearts and clubs and put East in with the last club.

East's last card was a low diamond, and he had to give dummy the precious ninth trick.

Veep Choice . . .

which you outline in your convention." He previously pledged support to Eisenhower and Nixon.

Prosperity on Peace

Nixon said it was hard for Americans to enjoy their privileges and liberties while "our boys" are fighting and dying overseas.

"Why not prosperity built on peace rather than prosperity built on war?" he asked; "why not prosperity and honest government in Washington at the same time?"

"We can have that," he declared in answer to his questions.

Nixon, who spoke without a prepared text, termed the Democratic presidential nominee a "captive candidate" of the CIO, big city bosses and President Truman.

"Despite his good intentions, and I do not question his good intentions," Nixon said, "Gov. Adlai Stevenson is a captive candidate.

"He is Jack Kroll's man. He is Jake Arvey's man and the man of all the other big city machines. He is Harry Truman's man."

Jack Kroll of Cincinnati is national head of the CIO Political Action Committee (PAC). Jacob Arvey is the Chicago national committeeman of Illinois, Stevenson's state, and a Chicago political power.

To Continue for Truman

Nixon said Stevenson and Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, would continue Truman's policies if elected.

The south knows Sparkman is a "Truman man," said Nixon. But he declared the Democrats lost the south when they failed to put Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia on their ticket.

Nixon said Eisenhower knows that his first job in Washington is to clean up corruption. "The others can't do it," he said. He added that Eisenhower would clean the Communists out of Washington.

"If you want a change, you have no choice but to vote Republican in November," Nixon cried.

The convention adopted a 13-page platform pledging highway, welfare, labor, farm, school and civil rights reforms. It also picked 25 presidential electors whose names will appear on the Nov. 4 election ballots.

'Synthetic Draft'

Bricker termed nomination of the reluctant Stevenson a "synthetic draft."

Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, Ohio GOP national committeewoman jolted the convention when, without using the New Yorker's name, she asked "further word" on removal of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's influence in the Eisenhower camp.

Ohioans blamed Dewey, unsuccessful presidential nominee in 1944 and 1948, for a major part in knocking Senator Taft out of the 1952 race.

Asked to comment on Mrs. Brown's speech, Nixon said he and Eisenhower, with other party leaders, planned a weekend draft of a campaign plan "intended to unite all elements of the party."

High Falls Collector Seeks Rail Photographs

David Goodyear, who conducts the Railroad Historical Museum at High Falls, announced today that he is seeking photographs of old engines for his collection.

All those who have such pictures, he said, may mail them to him at RD, Box 52-D, High Falls, or get in touch with him by mail at that address. The photographs may be of engines which operated on railroads anywhere in the nation. He already has a collection of many engines and trains which operated on railroads in this county and vicinity, and he seeks more of these also.

clawing their way up the slippery slopes from two directions.

Old Baldy overlooks the main battlefront. Van Fleet said Wednesday the hill could be held against anything, once it was recaptured, but that it was important only "as a place to kill Chinese, not as terrain."

Other ground action along the 155-mile battlefront was light. A U.N. patrol reported kiling eight Chinese and wounding 12 in a short clash Thursday night east of Panmunjom, the truce conference site.

On the eastern front, allied artillery broke up 11 groups of Red troops spotted northwest of the Punch Bowl.

Defense Is Planned In Tourney Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the advantages of playing against experts in a national tournament is that you know what to expect in the way of defense. You can't afford to base your campaign on the hope that the opponents will blunder if you can find any more reasonable line of play.

In the hand shown today, played by Samuel M. Stayman in last year's championship, the winning line of play is very hard to find. West opened the jack of spades, and Stayman played low from the dummy. East won with the king of spades and returned the suit in order to knock out the entry to dummy's long diamonds.

Declarer led a low diamond from dummy and played the king from his own hand, hoping, but not expecting, that the opponents would take the ace at once. When East played low and West carefully played the deuce of diamonds, Stayman realized that the suit could not be brought in.

West's play of the deuce of diamonds indicated that he held exactly three cards in the suit. (With two, or four, diamonds West would play high-low instead of following suit with his lowest diamond.)

	♠ A 4
	♦ Q J 10 9 3
	♣ 5 4 2
WEST		EAST
♠ J 10 9 7		♠ K 8 3
♥ Q 10 5 4		♥ J 9 3
♦ 5 4 2		♦ A 8 6
♣ J 10		♣ 9 8 7 3
	SOUTH (D)
	♠ Q 6 5 2
	♥ A K 6
	♦ K 7
	♣ A K Q 6

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
2 N. T.	Pass	3 N. T.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ J

Against ordinary players declarer might lead another diamond in the hope that the player with the ace would hold off once more. Since this could not be expected of experts, Stayman looked for a better plan.

After some thought he found a way to make his contract. Just for the fun of it, look the hand over carefully and see if you can find the right line of play.

Stayman led a low heart from his hand. East won with the nine of hearts, cashed the ace of diamonds, and led his last spade. South won with the queen. Now Stayman hopefully cashed the top hearts and clubs and put East in with the last club.

East's last card was a low diamond, and he had to give dummy the precious ninth trick.

Veep Choice . . .

which you outline in your convention." He previously pledged support to Eisenhower and Nixon.

Prosperity on Peace

Nixon said it was hard for Americans to enjoy their privileges and liberties while "our boys" are fighting and dying overseas.

"Why not prosperity built on peace rather than prosperity built on war?" he asked; "why not prosperity and honest government in Washington at the same time?"

"We can have that," he declared in answer to his questions.

Nixon, who spoke without a prepared text, termed the Democratic presidential nominee a "captive candidate" of the CIO, big city bosses and President Truman.

"Despite his good intentions, and I do not question his good intentions," Nixon said, "Gov. Adlai Stevenson is a captive candidate.

"He is Jack Kroll's man. He is Jake Arvey's man and the man of all the other big city machines. He is Harry Truman's man."

Jack Kroll of Cincinnati is national head of the CIO Political Action Committee (PAC). Jacob Arvey is the Chicago national committeeman of Illinois, Stevenson's state, and a Chicago political power.

To Continue for Truman

Nixon said Stevenson and Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, would continue Truman's policies if elected.

The south knows Sparkman is a "Truman man," said Nixon. But he declared the Democrats lost the south when they failed to put Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia on their ticket.

Nixon said Eisenhower knows that his first job in Washington is to clean up corruption. "The others can't do it," he said. He added that Eisenhower would clean the Communists out of Washington.

"If you want a change, you have no choice but to vote Republican in November," Nixon cried.

The convention adopted a 13-page platform pledging highway, welfare, labor, farm, school and civil rights reforms. It also picked 25 presidential electors whose names will appear on the Nov. 4 election ballots.

'Synthetic Draft'

Bricker termed nomination of the reluctant Stevenson a "synthetic draft."

Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, Ohio GOP national committeewoman jolted the convention when, without using the New Yorker's name, she asked "further word" on removal of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's influence in the Eisenhower camp.

Ohioans blamed Dewey, unsuccessful presidential nominee in 1944 and 1948, for a major part in knocking Senator Taft out of the 1952 race.

Asked to comment on Mrs. Brown's speech, Nixon said he and Eisenhower, with other party leaders, planned a weekend draft of a campaign plan "intended to unite all elements of the party."

High Falls Collector Seeks Rail Photographs

David Goodyear, who conducts the Railroad Historical Museum at High Falls, announced today that he is seeking photographs of old engines for his collection.

All those who have such pictures, he said, may mail them to him at RD, Box 52-D, High Falls, or get in touch with him by mail at that address. The photographs may be of engines which operated on railroads anywhere in the nation. He already has a collection of many engines and trains which operated on railroads in this county and vicinity, and he seeks more of these also.

Weather Intensifies

clawing their way up the slippery slopes from two directions.

Old Baldy overlooks the main battlefront. Van Fleet said Wednesday the hill could be held against anything, once it was recaptured, but that it was important only "as a place to kill Chinese, not as terrain."

Other ground action along the 155-mile battlefront was light. A U.N. patrol reported kiling eight Chinese and wounding 12 in a short clash Thursday night east of Panmunjom, the truce conference site.

On the eastern front, allied artillery broke up 11 groups of Red troops spotted northwest of the Punch Bowl.

Queen City Hurler Tosses Two-Hitter, Fans 13 Batters in 5-0 Win

Joe Molinaro Baffles Highland Nine In Tournament's 2nd Straight Shutout

It's no surprise to the railbirds that pitching will be the dominant factor in the District 3 Little League tournament now in progress at the 156th FA diamond.

The Kingston Athletic Association Little League All Stars are painfully aware of that fact as they prepare for their tournament debut against the Poughkeepsie Nationals today at 5:45 p. m.

Everything else being equal, pitching will always decide the short series or single game, as results of the last two games have proved.

Fast on the heels of Millerton's 3-0 conquest of Saugerties in the first upset of the tournament Wednesday, the Queen City Club of Poughkeepsie unveiled another pitching great in trouncing Highland, 5-0, in yesterday's first round game.

Fans 13 Batters

The lad's name is Joe Molinaro, ordinarily a name associated with golf in the Bridge City. Young Molinaro turned in a pitching classic that exceeded even the brilliant job Stuart Hansell did on Saugerties the day before.

Molinaro permitted only two hits and struck out 13 batters for a tournament record. His mates collected eight hits off Highland's Bob Bloomer and Don DiCapua. Errors figured in some of the Poughkeepsie scoring but Molinaro needed only one run yesterday.

Steltz, Newell Ready

If pitching is the solution, the KAA Little Leaguers are confident that either Dan Steltz or Glenn Newell will furnish it today. They are opposite types, Steltz strong-armed right hander; Newell, a smooth sidewheeler who pitches with the savvy of a major leaguer.

A wild pitch and single accounted for successive Poughkeepsie markers in the first inning. Two legitimate tallies crossed the plate in the third when Ben Perrino, his dad is the bowler, lashed a bases-loaded double after Molinaro singled, Anthony was safe on a fielder's choice and Smith walked.

Another wild pitch following singles by Frank Anthony and Alan Smith produced the fifth Bridge City run in the fifth. Anthony with two singles was the only player on either side with more than one hit. The Highland safeties went to Bill Phillips and Tom Casaburo.

Weill Takes Over As Marciano Pilot

New York, Aug. 1 (AP) — Al Weill steps down as International Boxing Club matchmaker, Sept. 1, to become full time manager of heavyweight contender Rocky Marciano.

The announcement was made yesterday by Jim Norris, IBC president following a meeting with Weill and Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Weill told Christenberry he wanted to give Marciano the benefit of his many years of experience as a manager and realized he could not do so under state laws while serving as matchmaker.

Marty Weill, Al's stepson, has managed the fighter since 1949.

Good Time Lags In Record Bid

Westbury, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Good Time, the biggest money winner in harness racing history, will have to step fast if he's going to whip his bank account to $300,000 before retiring to stud next year at the age of seven years.

The great sidewheeler is behind schedule, but owner Bill Cane still hopes he will hit the 300 grand before Jan. 1.

Good Time had to take a back seat to Dudley Hanover in the $50,000 Nassau two-mile trot at Roosevelt Raceway last night. Dudley who leads Good Time in money winnings for this year—$53,492 to $52,035—pulled ahead of Good Time in the stretch, to win it.

The Goshen, N. Y., horse had won nine straight races and was the 1-4 favorite, but he couldn't fight off the challenge of Dudley Hanover, who comes from the Hayes Fair Acres stables of Du Quoin, Ill. Prince Jay was third.

The winner was clocked in 4:15 2/5 and hauled home $22,500 for the first place. He paid $10.90 for a $2 win mutuel.

Shurter Favored In Rhinebeck '25'

Larry Shurter of West Shokan is favored to win his 25-lap feature of the season in the Saturday night stock car races at Rhinebeck Speedway.

An excellent driver, Shurter has been plagued by hard luck throughout the season. He is expected to get tough opposition from Vinnie Becker, of Red Hook, last week's surprise winner and other fixtures like Doug Garrison, Russ Truelove, Hoppy Jensen and others.

An added attraction is another Demolition Derby.

Arlington Mad-Cap Feature Saturday

Doug Benjamin, a consistent winner at Arlington, is favored against a crack field. Alan Rouse, Duke Washburn, Bud Hitsman and Walt Roberts are other favorites.

The "Race of Doom" in which eight cars are crushed into complete wrecks will be repeated this week.

Rotary Leads Police 1-0 in FYL Game Suspended With Two Outs Remaining

Due to a mistake in calculation by the official scorer, the Fraternal Youth League contest between the Police and Rotary will have to be played from the last of the seventh, with one out.

The situation cropped up yesterday at municipal stadium where the Rotary led the Police 1-0. The rule violated was the one that stipulates a pitcher may only pitch 10 innings out of 21.

Jack Houghtaling, Rotary pitcher, had already pitched 3 1/3 innings in a previous game with the Veterans of Foreign Wars but yesterday, due to the scorer's error, he was allowed to go a full seven innings.

According to the league rule he had exceeded his quota and should have been replaced by another pitcher.

Rotary collected their run in the second. Jack Houghtaling and Ernie Madison both pitched masterfully, Houghtaling yielding only three hits and accounting for half of the four granted by Madison. Charlie Diers and Ernie Smith got the others. John Weeks, Ed Hearst and Bob Tellier had the hits for the Police.

After the 2/3 inning is made up in accordance with the rules, the Rotary and Police will play a postponed game from earlier in the schedule.

Jones Dairy salvaged its perfect record in the City Baseball League by rallying for three runs in the sixth yesterday against the Colonial Merchants at the Athletic Field.

Bill Davis's Merchants had built up a 3-0 lead against Joe Modica by the end of the third and when the sixth started an upset seemed in the making.

Up came the Dairymen with a trio of runs. The clubs played a scoreless seventh and by that time it was so dark that Umpire Jack Rivenberg called the contest. It went into the record books as a 3-3 tie.

Haggerty and his reliefer, George Telepas, permitted only four Jones Dairy safeties but like the Merchants a couple of tainted tallies kept the Joneses in the running.

Joe Modica, the Jones starter, gave up five of the six Merchant hits and all three runs were charged against him. Tom Carlino accounted for half of the Dairymen's safeties with a homer and single. Orlando Felipe and Bob Post each poked a single and double for the Merchants.

Merchants went ahead 1-0 in the second when Slover scored on a walk, stolen base, passed ball and catcher's error in that order. With one out in the third, Dunham and Post singled in succession. Dunham scored on Shelightner's throw into centerfield. Post crossed on an infield out. That was the end of the Merchant scoring for the day.

Carlino's second homer of the season, a tremendous 400-foot blast to left field, ignited the Jones rally in the sixth. Walks to Graves and Maines and an error loaded the sacks with two outs but Felipe threw Shelightner's easy force grounder away permitting Neff and Jones to romp across with the tying markers.

U. S. Female Divers Place One-Two-Three In Olympic Platform Diving Competition

Helsinki, Aug. 1 (AP)—A trio of curvaceous California girls and an 18-year-old Hawaiian Miss played the leading roles in the Olympic games today.

Mrs. Patricia McCormick of Long Beach, Calif., winner of the springboard diving title two days ago; Paula Jean Myers, a 17-year-old from Covina, Calif., and Mrs. Juno Stover Irwin of Los Angeles, placed 1-2-3 after four qualifying dives in the women's platform diving competition.

Evelyn Kawamoto of Honolulu won her semi-final heat in the women's 400 meter freestyle swim to lead two of the three Americans into the finals.

Except for these two women's events, things were rather quiet as the Olympic stage was set for tomorrow's big windup program. And, for once, there weren't any broken records.

Miss Kawamoto, who broke the Olympic women's 400 meter swim record in her trial heat yesterday, took the semi-final in the ordinary time of 5:21.3, beating Hungary's Eva Novak. Valeria Gyenge of Hungary took the other semi-final in 5:16.9, three tenths of a second slower than Miss Kawamoto's new record time yesterday but nearly a full second faster than the 1948 Olympic record set by Ann Curtis.

Carolyn Green of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., placed second behind Miss Gyenge in 5:18.3 to qualify for the final. The eight fastest times qualified. Deliana Meuelenkamp of Mill Valley, Calif., who was made a U. S. citizen by a special act of Congress just in time to compete in the Olympics, was left on the starting block when the gun went off. She came in sixth.

In the platform diving competition, Mrs. McCormick scored 51.25 points for the four dives, putting her far ahead of Miss Myers, with 44.22 and Mrs. Irwin with 43.60. Two Russian girls were among the first eight.

Russians Lead

The early doings had no effect on the unofficial but torrid duel between Russia and the United States for the top place in overall point scoring—a matter not recognized by Olympic officials.

It was Russia by 523½ to 465 this morning with no events that count for medals — and points — scheduled until afternoon.

Russia's water polo team beat Spain, 4-3, in a losers-half final round game. The U. S. has qualified for the four-team final bracket. Yugoslavia became the fourth team to qualify for that group by beating Holland, 2-1, in a replay of a protested semi-final game.

Bulgaria earned the hollow honor of finishing seventh in the basketball competition by beating France, 58-44. Vincent Farrell, the referee who was injured in the riot which followed the France-Uruguay game, was one of the officials.

Hungary sent three fencers into the final round of the individual sabre fencing competition. Jose De Capriles of New York, the last American, was eliminated after winning two semi-final bouts.

West Shokan Tops Olive Memorial

West Shokan took over the lead in the Olive Memorial Baseball League by edging High Point, 6-4, in a contest enlivened by numerous rhubarbs.

Bunky Harrison, the winning pitcher, permitted five hits and fanned seven. The winners made nine hits off Al Tarlow. The game was halted by darkness in the fourth.

Warnes and Whispell each had two hits for the Shokan club. Goldstein of High Point stroked two singles.

Young Californian Bob Perry Is Rated Newest Tennis Find

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP) — A 19-year-old Californian named Bob Perry is rated the hottest young tennis prospect to come out of the west since Jack Kramer, and guess whom he gives the credit for his success?

Right, the answer is Kramer!

"Kramer has been coaching me on my volleying, and I guess I'm beginning to get the general idea," said Perry yesterday after knocking off top seeded Straight Clark of Pasadena in the Meadow Club tournament quarter finals.

Perry was beaten by Clark in the Middle Atlantic championship at Baltimore last week, 6-4, 6-4. He posted the same score in his victory over the 11th ranking U. S. netman yesterday, which should be a fair barometer of his continued improvement.

Son of a Los Angeles restaurant owner and a UCLA sophomore Perry now is favored to win the Meadow Cup tourney and get his name on the historic bowl. His next foe will be the winner of today's quarter final match between Sid Schwartz, veteran New Yorker, and Sidney B. Wood, the veteran who won the Wimbledon crown way back in 1931.

A tall, rangy lad of 6 feet 2 inches, Perry has adequate natural equipment to go to the top. This is his first year on the eastern circuit and his introduction to grass. But he's learning fast, and his terrific service backed by sharp volleying promise to win him a first ten ranking this season.

Ben Freer Hurls Four-Hitter in Clutch Game

Defense Sparkles For Both Sides

Hilltop Restaurant nosed out Beichert's Studebakers, 2 to 1, yesterday to end the long domination of the City Softball League by the Port Ewen brigade.

Veteran Ben Freer pitched four-hit ball in a brilliant stint that brought the 1952 regular championship to the Hilltops.

Playoffs will now get under way to determine places for the Shaughnessy tournament. The new city champions have been seeded in the first spot.

The winners collected seven hits off Joe Enright and cinched the flag with single markers in the second and fourth innings. The defense was exceptional on both sides with many players turning in spectacular efforts. Neither side committed an error, an unusual event in softball championship play.

Nick Carl and F. Bailey each had two hits for the champions. Walt Matheus had half of the Beichert total off Freer. Joe Fautz's triple for Beichert's was the only extra base blow.

Playoffs Planned

The victory closed out the regular season for Hilltop with 17 wins and 5 losses. Beichert's finished with 16 and 5 to tie Subway Grill in the regular standings. A best of three playoff is required by the rules to settle a tie for a Shaughnessy position. The playoff for second place between Subways and Beichert's starts next Wednesday.

The defensive play of the game was turned in by Tucker Fay, Hilltop rightfielder, who made a diving catch of Walt Matheus' bid for a homer. The umpires ruled that Fay had dropped the ball when he hit the ground but the spectacular catch held what would have been a sure home run to a single.

With two out in the last of the seventh, the Hilltop shortstop (you can't tell by the boxscore) made a great stab deep in "the hole" to throttle a Beichert threat. Runners were on first and third when the Hilltop shortstop made a great stop and throw to nip the runner at first base to end the contest.

Queen City Hurler Tosses Two-Hitter, Fans 13 Batters in 5-0 Win

Joe Molinaro Baffles Highland Nine In Tournament's 2nd Straight Shutout

It's no surprise to the railbirds that pitching will be the dominant factor in the District 3 Little League tournament now in progress at the 156th FA diamond.

The Kingston Athletic Association Little League All Stars are painfully aware of that fact as they prepare for their tournament debut against the Poughkeepsie Nationals today at 5:45 p. m.

Everything else being equal, pitching will always decide the short series or single game, as results of the last two games have proved.

Fast on the heels of Millerton's 3-0 conquest of Saugerties in the first upset of the tournament Wednesday, the Queen City Club of Poughkeepsie unveiled another pitching great in trouncing Highland, 5-0, in yesterday's first round game.

Fans 13 Batters

The lad's name is Joe Molinaro, ordinarily a name associated with golf in the Bridge City. Young Molinaro turned in a pitching classic that exceeded even the brilliant job Stuart Hansell did on Saugerties the day before.

Molinaro permitted only two hits and struck out 13 batters for a tournament record. His mates collected eight hits off Highland's Bob Bloomer and Don DiCapua. Errors figured in some of the Poughkeepsie scoring but Molinaro needed only one run yesterday.

Steltz, Newell Ready

If pitching is the solution, the KAA Little Leaguers are confident that either Dan Steltz or Glenn Newell will furnish it today. They are opposite types, Steltz strong-armed right hander; Newell, a smooth side-wheeler who pitches with the savvy of a major leaguer.

A wild pitch and single accounted for successive Poughkeepsie markers in the first inning. Two legitimate tallies crossed the plate in the third when Ben Perrino, his dad is the bowler, lashed a bases-loaded double after Molinaro singled. Anthony was safe on a fielder's choice and Smith walked.

Another wild pitch following singles by Frank Anthony and Alan Smith produced the fifth Bridge City run in the fifth. Anthony with two singles was the only player on either side with more than one hit. The Highland safeties went to Bill Phillips and Tom Casaburo.

Weill Takes Over As Marciano Pilot

New York, Aug. 1 (AP) — Al Weill steps down as International Boxing Club matchmaker, Sept. 1, to become full time manager of heavyweight contender Rocky Marciano.

With Marciano, unbeaten Brockton, Mass., slugger, ready to challenge Jersey Joe Walcott for the title in September, Weill decided to resume management of the fighter.

The announcement was made yesterday by Jim Norris, IBC president following a meeting with Weill and Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Weill told Christenberry he wanted to give Marciano the benefit of his many years of experience as a manager and realized he could not do so under state laws while serving as matchmaker.

Marty Weill, Al's stepson, has managed the fighter since 1949.

Good Time Lags In Record Bid

Westbury, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—Good Time, the biggest money winner in harness racing history, will have to step fast if he's going to whip his bank account to $300,000 before retiring to stud next year at the age of seven years.

The great sidewheeler is behind schedule, but owner Bill Cane still hopes he will hit the 300 grand before Jan. 1.

Good Time had to take a back seat to Dudley Hanover in the $50,000 Nassau two-mile trot at Roosevelt Raceway last night. Dudley who leads Good Time in money winnings for this year—$53,492 to $52,035—pulled ahead of Good Time in the stretch, to win it.

The Goshen, N. Y., horse had won nine straight races and was the 1-4 favorite, but he couldn't fight off the challenge of Dudley Hanover, who comes from the Hayes Fair Acres stables of Du Quoin, Ill. Prince Jay was third.

The winner was clocked in 4:15 2/5 and hauled home $22,500 for the first place. He paid $10.90 for a $2 win mutuel.

Oslo—Lindy Remigino of Manhattan College equalled the world 100-meter dash record of 10.2 seconds.

Shurter Favored In Rhinebeck '25'

Larry Shurter of West Shokan is favored to win his 25-lap feature of the season in the Saturday night stock car races at Rhinebeck Speedway.

An excellent driver, Shurter has been plagued by hard luck throughout the season. He is expected to get tough opposition from Vinnie Becker, of Red Hook, last week's surprise winner and other fixtures like Doug Garrison, Russ Truelove, Hoppy Jensen and others.

An added attraction is another Demolition Derby.

Arlington Mad-Cap Feature Saturday

The largest field of stock cars this season is expected for Arlington Speedway's 50-lap "mad-cap" championship Saturday night.

Doug Benjamin, a consistent winner at Arlington, is favored against a crack field. Alan Rouse, Duke Washburn, Bud Hitsman and Walt Roberts are other favorites.

The "Race of Doom" in which eight cars are crushed into complete wrecks will be repeated this week.

Batting—Billy Johnson, Cardinals—Singled twice in the same inning as St. Louis scored six in fifth to top Boston, 8-3.

Jones Dairy Rally in Sixth Gains 3-3 Tie With Colonial Merchants

Rotary Leads Police 1-0 in FYL Game Suspended With Two Outs Remaining

Due to a mistake in calculation by the official scorer, the Fraternal Youth League contest between the Police and Rotary will have to be played from the last of the seventh, with one out.

The situation cropped up yesterday at municipal stadium where the Rotary led the Police 1-0. The rule violated was the one that stipulates a pitcher may only pitch 10 innings out of 21.

Jack Houghtaling, Rotary pitcher, had already pitched 3 1/3 innings in a previous game with the Veterans of Foreign Wars but yesterday, due to the scorer's error, he was allowed to go a full seven innings.

According to the league rule he had exceeded his quota and should have been replaced by another pitcher.

Rotary collected their run in the second. Jack Houghtaling and Ernie Madison both pitched masterfully, Houghtaling yielding only three hits and accounting for half of the four granted by Madison. Charlie Diers and Ernie Smith got the others. John Weeks, Ed Hearst and Bob Tellier had the hits for the Police.

After the 2/3 inning is made up in accordance with the rules, the Rotary and Police will play a postponed game from earlier in the schedule.

Jones Dairy salvaged its perfect record in the City Baseball League by rallying for three runs in the sixth yesterday against the Colonial Merchants at the Athletic Field.

Bill Davis's Merchants had built up a 3-0 lead against Joe Modica by the end of the third and when the sixth started an upset seemed in the making.

Up came the Dairymen with a trio of runs. The clubs played a scoreless seventh and by that time it was so dark that Umpire Jack Rivenberg called the contest. It went into the record books as a 3-3 tie.

Haggerty and his reliefer, George Telepas, permitted only four Jones Dairy safeties but like the Merchants a couple of tainted tallies kept the Joneses in the running.

Joe Modica, the Jones starter, gave up five of the six Merchant hits and all three runs were charged against him. Tom Carlino accounted for half of the Dairymen's safeties with a homer and single. Orlando Felipe and Bob Post each poked a single and double for the Merchants.

Merchants went ahead 1-0 in the second when Slover scored on a walk, stolen base, passed ball and catcher's error in that order. With one out in the third, Dunham and Post singled in succession. Dunham scored on Shelightner's throw into centerfield. Post crossed on an infield out. That was the end of the Merchant scoring for the day.

Carlino's second homer of the season, a tremendous 400-foot blast to left field, ignited the Jones rally in the sixth. Walks to Graves and Maines and an error loaded the sacks with two outs but Felipe threw Shelightner's easy force grounder away permitting Neff and Jones to romp across with the tying markers.

U. S. Female Divers Place One-Two-Three In Olympic Platform Diving Competition

Helsinki, Aug. 1 (AP)—A trio of curvaceous California girls and an 18-year-old Hawaiian Miss played the leading roles in the Olympic games today.

Mrs. Patricia McCormick of Long Beach, Calif., winner of the springboard diving title two days ago; Paula Jean Myers, a 17-year-old from Covina, Calif., and Mrs. Juno Stover Irwin of Los Angeles, placed 1-2-3 after four qualifying dives in the women's platform diving competition.

Evelyn Kawamoto of Honolulu won her semi-final heat in the women's 400 meter freestyle swim to lead two of the three Americans into the finals.

Except for these two women's events, things were rather quiet as the Olympic stage was set for tomorrow's big windup program. And, for once, there weren't any broken records.

Miss Kawamoto, who broke the Olympic women's 400 meter swim record in her trial heat yesterday, took the semi-final in the ordinary time of 5:21.3, beating Hungary's Eva Novak. Valeria Gyenge of Hungary took the other semi-final in 5:16.9, three tenths of a second slower than Miss Kawamoto's new record time yesterday but nearly a full second faster than the 1948 Olympic record set by Ann Curtis.

Carolyn Green of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., placed second behind Miss Gyenge in 5:18.3 to qualify for the final. The eight fastest times qualified. Deliana Meuelenkamp of Mill Valley, Calif., who was made a U. S. citizen by a special act of Congress just in time to compete in the Olympics, was left on the starting block when the gun went off. She came in sixth.

In the platform diving competition, Mrs. McCormick scored 51.25 points for the four dives, putting her far ahead of Miss Myers, with 44.22 and Mrs. Irwin with 43.60. Two Russian girls were among the first eight.

Russians Lead

The early doings had no effect on the unofficial but torrid duel between Russia and the United States for the top place in overall point scoring—a matter not recognized by Olympic officials.

It was Russia by 523½ to 465 this morning with no events that count for medals — and points — scheduled until afternoon.

Russia's water polo team beat Spain, 4-3, in a losers-half final round game. The U. S. has qualified for the four-team final bracket. Yugoslavia became the fourth team to qualify for that group by beating Holland, 2-1, in a replay of a protested semi-final game.

Bulgaria earned the hollow honor of finishing seventh in the basketball competition by beating France, 58-44. Vincent Farrell, the referee who was injured in the riot which followed the France-Uruguay game, was one of the officials.

Hungary sent three fencers into the final round of the individual sabre fencing competition. Jose De Capriles of New York, the last American, was eliminated after winning two semi-final bouts.

West Shokan Tops Olive Memorial

West Shokan took over the lead in the Olive Memorial Baseball League by edging High Point, 6-4, in a contest enlivened by numerous rhubarbs.

Bunky Harrison, the winning pitcher, permitted five hits and fanned seven. The winners made nine hits off Al Tarlow. The game was halted by darkness in the fourth.

Warnes and Whispell each had two hits for the Shokan club. Goldstein of High Point stroked two singles.

Young Californian Bob Perry Is Rated Newest Tennis Find

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP) — A 19-year-old Californian named Bob Perry is rated the hottest young tennis prospect to come out of the west since Jack Kramer, and guess whom he gives the credit for his success?

Right, the answer is Kramer!

"Kramer has been coaching me on my volleying, and I guess I'm beginning to get the general idea," said Perry yesterday after knocking off top seeded Straight Clark of Pasadena in the Meadow Club tournament quarter finals.

Perry was beaten by Clark in the Middle Atlantic championship at Baltimore last week, 6-4, 6-4. He posted the same score in his victory over the 11th ranking U. S. netman yesterday, which should be a fair barometer of his continued improvement.

Son of a Los Angeles restaurant owner and a UCLA sophomore Perry now is favored to win the Meadow Cup tourney and get his name on the historic bowl. His next foe will be the winner of today's quarter final match between Sid Schwartz, veteran New Yorker, and Sidney B. Wood, the veteran who won the Wimbledon crown way back in 1931.

A tall, rangy lad of 6 feet 2 inches, Perry has adequate natural equipment to go to the top. This is his first year on the eastern circuit and his introduction to grass. But he's learning fast, and his terrific service backed by sharp volleying promise to win him a first ten ranking this season.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Joey Dejohn, 163½, Syracuse, knocked out Henry "Kid" Lee, 160¼, Springfield, Mass., 3.

Ben Freer Hurls Four-Hitter in Clutch Game

Defense Sparkles For Both Sides

Hilltop Restaurant nosed out Beichert's Studebakers, 2 to 1, yesterday to end the long domination of the City Softball League by the Port Ewen brigade.

Veteran Ben Freer pitched four-hit ball in a brilliant stint that brought the 1952 regular championship to the Hilltops.

Playoffs will now get under way to determine places for the Shaughnessy tournament. The new city champions have been seeded in the first spot.

The winners collected seven hits off Joe Enright and cinched the flag with single markers in the second and fourth innings. The defense was exceptional on both sides with many players turning in spectacular efforts. Neither side committed an error, an unusual event in softball championship play.

Nick Carl and F. Bailey each had two hits for the champions. Walt Matheus had half of the Beichert total off Freer. Joe Fautz's triple for Beichert's was the only extra base blow.

Playoffs Planned

The victory closed out the regular season for Hilltop with 17 wins and 5 losses. Beichert's finished with 16 and 5 to tie Subway Grill in the regular standings. A best of three playoff is required by the rules to settle a tie for a Shaughnessy position. The playoff for second place between Subways and Beichert's starts next Wednesday.

The defensive play of the game was turned in by Tucker Fay, Hilltop rightfielder, who made a diving catch of Walt Matheus' bid for a homer. The umpires ruled that Fay had dropped the ball when he hit the ground but the spectacular catch held what would have been a sure home run to a single.

With two out in the last of the seventh, the Hilltop shortstop (you can't tell by the boxscore) made a great stab deep in "the hole" to throttle a Beichert threat. Runners were on first and third when the Hilltop shortstop made a great stop and throw to nip the runner at first base to end the contest.

The SCORE Board

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

Little Bobby Shantz, leading candidate for the American League's Most Valuable Player award, looks like baseball's "man of the year."

With a dazzling 19-3 record, the little Lefty is a sure thing to become the first 20-game winner in '52. Barring a slump he should become the first to win 25 for the Philadelphia A's since Lefty Grove in 1932.

Even the 30-win mark, a target nobody has hit since Dizzy Dean's performance in 1934, is within reach. For the A's still have 50 games to play.

Shantz' 19th was a four-hitter against Detroit, 2-1, in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday. He struck out seven and walked only two in outpitching young Billy Hoeft. The A's also took the second game, 3-2, with three in the ninth off Virgil Trucks.

The Philadelphia wins helped tighten the American race a bit. Even the fifth-place A's, eight games back, remain in the race.

Raschi Wins 12th

Vic Raschi, regaining his old place as New York Yankee ace, won his 10th straight and 12th of the season by 6-2 over Chicago to keep the Yanks three games ahead of the Indians.

Cleveland staged a six-run rally in the eighth to make it two of three over Boston, 8-2. Joe Tipton's tie-breaking homer off Maurice McDermott started the spurt that also included a two-run triple by Larry Doby and a double by Al Rosen. Bob Lemon earned his 12th victory with a seven-hitter.

Washington remained 5½ games back of the Yanks by scoring five in the first inning before anybody was out to rip St. Louis, 10-5. Sandy Consuegra, relieving Randy Gumpert in the fourth, won his fifth in a row.

Brooklyn widened its National League lead to six games over New York by knocking off Pittsburgh in two games, 7-6 in 11 innings and 4-1. A walk by reliefer Paul La Palme with the bases loaded gave the Dodgers the first game. Rookie Joe Landrum, just advanced from the Fort Worth farm where he won 15, copped his first big league start in the second game with an eight-hitter.

Cubs Top Giants

Chicago went wild to score nine in the seventh and trim the Giants 11-8. Despite an 11-1 lead, the Cubs had to battle to stave off a late Giant rally. Three in the seventh and four in the eighth on Jim Rhodes' grand slam homer made it close.

The St. Louis Cards ripped into Vern Bickford for six in the fifth inning to thump the Boston Braves, 8-3. Billy Johnson had two singles in the big inning when 10 batters went to the plate.

Philadelphia is next port of call of the onrushing Cardinals who now are only four games behind the Giants. The Phillies, also red hot, and Cincinnati were idle.

The last time Raschi lost a game was May 7 when he was knocked out in the fifth by Cleveland. However, he failed to go the route in his last two starts before last night's six-hit complete game.

Another big Chicago crowd of 34,548 saw the Yanks bomb Saul Rogovin off the hill in the fourth to take the lead. Gene Woodling's double and singles by Billy Martin and Phil Rizzuto drove in the runs. The Yanks added another in the seventh with two out and one more in the ninth, both driven home by Woodling's singles.

Mayer's 65 Tops All-American

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP)—Dick Mayer, former Army tank sergeant who is seeking his first major golf title, today led a par-crunching array of pros into the second round of the $30,000 All-American tourney.

Mayer, 28-year-old St. Petersburg, Fla., pro of three seasons, shot a seven-under par opening 65, to take a one-stroke lead over National PGA champion Jim Turnesa.

Turnesa in turn, had four 67 shooters on his heels after yesterday's opening drive over Tam O'Shanter's gay acres which produced 45 scores under par 72.

You could take your pick among solid performers and dark horses as to who might be winging ahead when the 72-hole chase for top prize of $3,420 ends Sunday.

Knotted at 67, two strokes behind Mayer, who whipped in eight birdies yesterday, were Ted Rhodes, hunting the first top-drawer win by a Negro; Bob Gadja, another lesser light; and two well-tried hands, the incomparable Sammy Snead and Johnny Palmer, recent Canadian Open winner.

Three Boys Held For Taking Trucks

Three West Shokan boys were arrested Thursday by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown on a charge of having taken two county dump trucks which had been parked back of the town of Olive garage at West Shokan. The trucks were recovered not far away Sunday.

Arrested was Martin L. Eckert, Jr., 17; Albert L. Parsons, 17, and Robert F. Whispell, 16. Taken before Justice of the Peace Lester S. Davis of West Shokan the lads waived examination and were held for grand jury action. A charge of grand larceny, first degree, was lodged. Parsons and Whispell were later admitted to $1,000 bail each which was set by Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth.

The trio was arrested at West Shokan by Investigator Brown, Assistant County Investigator William Churchill and Deputy Sheriff Arthur Smith. Two other lads charged with being involved in the act were apprehended about 1 a. m. Sunday when they came out of the woods where County Investigator Brown was on watch. They are under 16 years of age and will have a hearing in Children's Court. Their names were not disclosed.

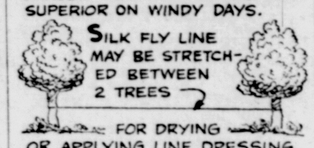
FISHING LINE TIPS

BRAIDED SILK FLY LINES ARE HEAVIER AND STRONGER THAN NYLON OF THE SAME SIZE. THEREFORE, SMALLER DIAMETER SILK LINE WILL CAST FARTHER BECAUSE IT HAS LESS AIR RESISTANCE THAN NYLON OF THE SAME WEIGHT BUT LARGER SIZE. IT IS ESPECIALLY SUPERIOR ON WINDY DAYS.



SILK FLY LINE MAY BE STRETCHED BETWEEN 2 TREES

FOR DRYING OR APPLYING LINE DRESSING BUT AVOID THIS WITH NYLON OR YOU'LL DAMAGE ITS FINISH!

NYLON REQUIRES NO AFTER CARE WHEN USED IN BRACKISH WATER, OTHER LINES DO.

NYLON IS LESS EXPENSIVE.

The SCORE Board

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

Little Bobby Shantz, leading candidate for the American League's Most Valuable Player award, looks like baseball's "man of the year."

With a dazzling 19-3 record, the little Lefty is a sure thing to become the first 20-game winner in '52. Barring a slump he should become the first to win 25 for the Philadelphia A's since Lefty Grove in 1932.

Even the 30-win mark, a target nobody has hit since Dizzy Dean's performance in 1934, is within reach. For the A's still have 50 games to play.

Shantz' 19th was a four-hitter against Detroit, 2-1, in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday. He struck out seven and walked only two in outpitching young Billy Hoeft. The A's also took the second game, 3-2, with three in the ninth off Virgil Trucks.

The Philadelphia wins helped tighten the American race a bit. Even the fifth-place A's, eight games back, remain in the race.

Raschi Wins 12th

Vic Raschi, regaining his old place as New York Yankee ace, won his 10th straight and 12th of the season by 6-2 over Chicago to keep the Yanks three games ahead of the Indians.

Cleveland staged a six-run rally in the eighth to make it two of three over Boston, 8-2. Joe Tipton's tie-breaking homer off Maurice McDermott started the spurt that also included a two-run triple by Larry Doby and a double by Al Rosen. Bob Lemon earned his 12th victory with a seven-hitter.

Washington remained 5½ games back of the Yanks by scoring five in the first inning before anybody was out to rip St. Louis, 10-5. Sandy Consuegra, relieving Randy Gumpert in the fourth, won his fifth in a row.

Brooklyn widened its National League lead to six games over New York by knocking off Pittsburgh in two games, 7-6 in 11 innings and 4-1. A walk by reliefer Paul La Palme with the bases loaded gave the Dodgers the first game. Rookie Joe Landrum, just advanced from the Fort Worth farm where he won 15, copped his first big league start in the second game with an eight-hitter.

Cubs Top Giants

Chicago went wild to score nine in the seventh and trim the Giants 11-8. Despite an 11-1 lead, the Cubs had to battle to stave off a late Giant rally. Three in the seventh and four in the eighth on Jim Rhodes' grand slam homer made it close.

The St. Louis Cards ripped into Vern Bickford for six in the fifth inning to thump the Boston Braves, 8-3. Billy Johnson had two singles in the big inning when 10 batters went to the plate.

Philadelphia is next port of call of the onrushing Cardinals who now are only four games behind the Giants. The Phillies, also red hot, and Cincinnati were idle.

The last time Raschi lost a game was May 7 when he was knocked out in the fifth by Cleveland. However, he failed to go the route in his last two starts before last night's six-hit complete game.

Another big Chicago crowd of 34,548 saw the Yanks bomb Saul Rogovin off the hill in the fourth to take the lead. Gene Woodling's double and singles by Billy Martin and Phil Rizzuto drove in the runs. The Yanks added another in the seventh with two out and one more in the ninth, both driven home by Woodling's singles.

Mayer's 65 Tops All-American

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP)—Dick Mayer, former Army tank sergeant who is seeking his first major golf title, today led a par-crunching array of pros into the second round of the $30,000 All-American tourney.

Mayer, 28-year-old St. Petersburg, Fla., pro of three seasons, shot a seven-under par opening 65, to take a one-stroke lead over National PGA champion Jim Turnesa.

Turnesa in turn, had four 67 shooters on his heels after yesterday's opening drive over Tam O'Shanter's gay acres which produced 45 scores under par 72.

You could take your pick among solid performers and dark horses as to who might be winging ahead when the 72-hole chase for top prize of $3,420 ends Sunday.

Knotted at 67, two strokes behind Mayer, who whipped in eight birdies yesterday, were Ted Rhodes, hunting the first top-drawer win by a Negro; Bob Gadja, another lesser light; and two well-tried hands, the incomparable Sammy Snead and Johnny Palmer, recent Canadian Open winner.

Aluminum Price May Be Increased

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—A price increase for the aluminum industry averaging 5.5 per cent—about half the amount requested—was reported in the process today. One price official said it would be announced next Monday.

The official told a reporter late yesterday the ceiling hike would be one cent per pound on raw aluminum—pig and ingot—and 5 per cent on semi-fabricated and fully fabricated products.

These increases were expected to bring higher prices on aluminum products and products containing aluminum. One official said the hikes were being granted under price standards which allow price increases to step up defense production.

Gambler Indicted At Hudson for Alleged Bribery

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—The special grand jury investigating Columbia county crime and corruption indicted an alleged gambler yesterday on a charge of trying to bribe District Attorney John N. McLaren.

The indictment also accused Benjamin Goldstein of Hudson, on 30 counts, of running a numbers game.

The indictment charged that Goldstein had "criminally offered and gave McLaren $100 on Dec. 22, 1949. This was a few days before McLaren took office as distirct attorney.

The grand jury made no charges against McLaren.

The grand jury also indicted Goldstein's brother-in-law, Ben Reizen of Troy. He was charged with four counts of perjury.

The jury accused him of lying when he testified July 1 that he had not participated in numbers operations with Goldstein.

Bail Is Set

Bail for Goldstein was set at $10,000 and $5,000 for Reizen.

At the arraignment, Thomas Mason, assistant special prosecutor, characterized Goldstein as a "notorius gambler and racketeer."

Mason told the court that "there also is considerable evidence assembled by the prosecution that Goldstein was influential in bribing a number of public officials and in the corruption of various persons on the Hudson City Police Force."

Mason also accused Goldstein of an "open and brazen attempt to bribe John N. McLaren, the district attorney-elect." The indictment, however, formally charged Goldstein with bribery.

The gambling charges against Goldstein contain 13 misdemeanor and 17 felong counts. Most of them deal with operating a numbers game.

Indictment's Assertion

The indictment asserted "that on Dec. 22, 1949, he (Goldstein) knowingly and criminally offered and gave to District Attorney John N. McLaren money in the amount of $100 and promised each and every month thereafter with intent to influence McLaren with respect to decisions and opinions in the exercise of powers and functions which he, McLaren, was thereafter to have as district attorney."

McLaren reported to the State Crime Commission last fall that Goldstein visited him and handed him a $100 bill.

He said that Goldstein departed before he could return the money. The prosecutor said that later he gave the money back to Goldstein.

The special grand jury probe was ordered by Gov. Dewey earlier this year after the State Crime Commission had conducted a public hearing at which there was testimony of tieups between gamblers and officeholders.

Mountain Festival Scheduled Aug. 16 At Chichester Hall

Songs and dances of the Catskill pioneers will be featured at the Twelfth Annual Folk Festival of the Catskills, to be held at the American Legion Hall in Chichester, Saturday evening, Aug. 16. The festival will be sponsored by Camp Woodland and a number of local Catskill residents, who have also cooperated in the formation of the Catskill Folk Museum, which will be open every Saturday in August.

The Folk Festival will present a group of ballad singers, jig dancers, and story tellers from every part of the Catskills, from the Hudson river west to the Delaware. Songs of the lumber woods, courting songs, and songs brought over from Europe by the early settlers will be featured. A group of old-time square dance callers will provide music and calls for the square dance which will cap the performance.

A feature of the evening's program will be the performance of the cantata, We've Come From the City, by the Camp Woodland Chorus of over a hundred voices, and the camp orchestra. Composed by Hubert Haufrecht, an outstanding musician, this cantata was commissioned by Camp Woodland for the 1945 Folk Festival. The cantata is centered around the story of the reservoirs being built in the Catskills to supply New York city with more water. Written originally around an event connected wtih the building of the Lackawack Dam, the cantata has been revised to apply to present dam construction. The character of a rainmaker has been added to bring the cantata up to date.

The Folk Museum of the Catskills, also sponsored by the camp and local residents, will open its doors on Saturday, Aug. 9, and will be open every subsequent Saturday in August. The museum features the work life of the people who pioneered in the Catskill area — the tanners, lumbermen, scoopmakers and quarrymen. Each Saturday, weather permitting, there will be an outdoor demonstration of pioneer folk arts, such as weaving, basket making, scoop making and hoop shaving, at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. The museum will be open each Saturday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Admission to the Catskill Folk Festival will be nominal. The program will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Austria Asks End Of Being Occupied By Foreign Nations

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Austria has asked the United States formally to help end its occupation by Russia and the western powers — United States, Britain and France.

The western powers have been negotiating with Russia for five years on terms for ending the occupation of Austria and establishing its independence. Only a few issues remain unsettled.

But American officials doubt that Russia will agree to surrendering its position in the Soviet occupation zone of Austria prior to a general settlement between the east and west.

Water Supply From Lakes

Great Lakes cities like Chicago and Duluth get their water supply by extending pipes 2 to 8 miles offshore to bring in lake water from beyond the range of city-caused pollution.

Articles for County Fair May Still Be Put in Competition

Mrs. William Powers, superintendent of the Home Department of the Ulster County Fair to be held at Forsyth Park in Kingston on August 20 and 21, announced today that there is still time to enter articles in the Home Department. Anyone who is a resident of the county is eligible to enter. For a complete list of articles that may be entered is available at the Home Bureau office, 280 Wall street.

Mrs. Powers reports a wide variety of entries, making it possible for every homemaker to find some entry class she can enter. The following will give an idea of a few of the articles in the various sections that can be entered.

The food section includes canned vegetables, meat, fruit, pickles, jam, jelly, and preserves. Among the baked goods are cakes, cookies, pies, bread and rolls.

The 1952 specialty in this section is an apple dessert which may be any kind except apple pie which is entered in a special class.

Furniture and furnishings include refinished, stencilled, homemade furniture, slip covers, needlepoint, hooked mats and chair mats, cane and rush seated chairs and sewing centers. Quilts, both antique and modern, knitted, braided, hooked, crocheted, woven and toothbrush handle rugs are on the list.

Articles of clothing including gloves, bags, scarves, socks, mittens, dresses, suits, coats, skirts, blouses for adults or children are included.

For the first time this year the committee has included clothing with decorative stitchery — an apron, blouse for adult or child's garment trimmed with stitchery.

The section on crafts and hobbies includes crocheted, woven, knitted, tatted and embroidered articles other than apparel, stuffed animals, homemade dolls and toys, textile stencilled articles, metal work and a variety of flower arrangements.

Two Auto Accidents Occur in Woodstock

Two automobile accidents in the Woodstock area Thursday were investigated by Cpl. Ray Dunn of the state police. One accident involved a hit and run car which was trailed by the victim to the Woodstock Playhouse but while the operator of the damaged machine was endeavoring to notify Corporal Dunn the offending machine drove off.

Max Nightensall of North Franklin street, Philadelphia, was driving on route 212 near the Art Student League property and the junction of the Zena road when he reported to Corporal Dunn a dark green Buick sedan attempted to pass and struck his car. It was about 4 p. m. Nightensall gave chase and overtook the car at the Playhouse but the operator of the offending machine pulled away when Nightensall was notifying the state police. The license was reported by Corporal Dunn to have been 1-F-7410 N. Y. A warrant was issued by Justice George J. Braendly and an eight-state alarm was sent out for the car.

The second accident, which Corporal Dunn also checked, was at 3:45 p. m. Thursday. A Mercury sedan owned by William Hand of the Woodstock Dairies, operated by his son, Samuel Hand, and a car operated by Benjamin Franklin King of Quarryville collided near the former Justice Shultis house on Bearsville road. The cars were damaged slightly. There was no arrest.

Held for Pool Dip

Officers Kenneth Gaffney and John TenEyck, who arrested Sidney Floyd Verity, 49, of Seaford, Merrick, L. I., at about 10 p. m., yesterday, said he had been "swimming" in the pool at Forsyth Park fully clothed. Arraigned today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino on a public intoxication charge, he was given a 10-day suspended sentence. Verity said in court that he had been depressed because of a sequence of family reverses.

Aluminum Price May Be Increased

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—A price increase for the aluminum industry averaging 5.5 per cent—about half the amount requested—was reported in the process today. One price official said it would be announced next Monday.

The official told a reporter late yesterday the ceiling hike would be one cent per pound on raw aluminum—pig and ingot—and 5 per cent on semi-fabricated and fully fabricated products.

These increases were expected to bring higher prices on aluminum products and products containing aluminum. One official said the hikes were being granted under price standards which allow price increases to step up defense production.

Gambler Indicted At Hudson for Alleged Bribery

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—The special grand jury investigating Columbia county crime and corruption indicted an alleged gambler yesterday on a charge of trying to bribe District Attorney John N. McLaren.

The indictment also accused Benjamin Goldstein of Hudson, on 30 counts, of running a numbers game.

The indictment charged that Goldstein had "criminally offered and gave McLaren $100 on Dec. 22, 1949. This was a few days before McLaren took office as distirct attorney.

The grand jury made no charges against McLaren.

The grand jury also indicted Goldstein's brother-in-law, Ben Reizen of Troy. He was charged with four counts of perjury.

The jury accused him of lying when he testified July 1 that he had not participated in numbers operations with Goldstein.

Bail Is Set

Bail for Goldstein was set at $10,000 and $5,000 for Reizen.

At the arraignment, Thomas Mason, assistant special prosecutor, characterized Goldstein as a "notorius gambler and racketeer."

Mason told the court that "there also is considerable evidence assembled by the prosecution that Goldstein was influential in bribing a number of public officials and in the corruption of various persons on the Hudson City Police Force."

Mason also accused Goldstein of an "open and brazen attempt to bribe John N. McLaren, the district attorney-elect." The indictment, however, formally charged Goldstein with bribery.

The gambling charges against Goldstein contain 13 misdemeanor and 17 felong counts. Most of them deal with operating a numbers game.

Indictment's Assertion

The indictment asserted "that on Dec. 22, 1949, he (Goldstein) knowingly and criminally offered and gave to District Attorney John N. McLaren money in the amount of $100 and promised each and every month thereafter with intent to influence McLaren with respect to decisions and opinions in the exercise of powers and functions which he, McLaren, was thereafter to have as district attorney."

McLaren reported to the State Crime Commission last fall that Goldstein visited him and handed him a $100 bill.

He said that Goldstein departed before he could return the money. The prosecutor said that later he gave the money back to Goldstein.

The special grand jury probe was ordered by Gov. Dewey earlier this year after the State Crime Commission had conducted a public hearing at which there was testimony of tieups between gamblers and officeholders.

That old saying that what the country needs is a good five-cent cigar keeps echoing down through the years. Arch Nearbrite says he'd rather have an old-fashioned five-cent nickel, twenty of which would make a dollar instead of only about 53 cents. © NEA

Songs and dances of the Catskill pioneers will be featured at the Twelfth Annual Folk Festival of the Catskills, to be held at the American Legion Hall in Chichester, Saturday evening, Aug. 16. The festival will be sponsored by Camp Woodland and a number of local Catskill residents, who have also cooperated in the formation of the Catskill Folk Museum, which will be open every Saturday in August.

The Folk Festival will present a group of ballad singers, jig dancers, and story tellers from every part of the Catskills, from the Hudson river west to the Delaware. Songs of the lumber woods, courting songs, and songs brought over from Europe by the early settlers will be featured. A group of old-time square dance callers will provide music and calls for the square dance which will cap the performance.

A feature of the evening's program will be the performance of the cantata, We've Come From the City, by the Camp Woodland Chorus of over a hundred voices, and the camp orchestra. Composed by Hubert Haufrecht, an outstanding musician, this cantata was commissioned by Camp Woodland for the 1945 Folk Festival. The cantata is centered around the story of the reservoirs being built in the Catskills to supply New York city with more water. Written originally around an event connected wtih the building of the Lackawack Dam, the cantata has been revised to apply to present dam construction. The character of a rainmaker has been added to bring the cantata up to date.

The Folk Museum of the Catskills, also sponsored by the camp and local residents, will open its doors on Saturday, Aug. 9, and will be open every subsequent Saturday in August. The museum features the work life of the people who pioneered in the Catskill area — the tanners, lumbermen, scoopmakers and quarrymen. Each Saturday, weather permitting, there will be an outdoor demonstration of pioneer folk arts, such as weaving, basket making, scoop making and hoop shaving, at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. The museum will be open each Saturday from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Admission to the Catskill Folk Festival will be nominal. The program will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Austria Asks End Of Being Occupied By Foreign Nations

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—Austria has asked the United States formally to help end its occupation by Russia and the western powers — United States, Britain and France.

The western powers have been negotiating with Russia for five years on terms for ending the occupation of Austria and establishing its independence. Only a few issues remain unsettled.

But American officials doubt that Russia will agree to surrendering its position in the Soviet occupation zone of Austria prior to a general settlement between the east and west.

Water Supply From Lakes

Great Lakes cities like Chicago and Duluth get their water supply by extending pipes 2 to 8 miles offshore to bring in lake water from beyond the range of city-caused pollution.

Articles for County Fair May Still Be Put in Competition

Mrs. William Powers, superintendent of the Home Department of the Ulster County Fair to be held at Forsyth Park in Kingston on August 20 and 21, announced today that there is still time to enter articles in the Home Department. Anyone who is a resident of the county is eligible to enter. For a complete list of articles that may be entered is available at the Home Bureau office, 280 Wall street.

Mrs. Powers reports a wide variety of entries, making it possible for every homemaker to find some entry class she can enter. The following will give an idea of a few of the articles in the various sections that can be entered.

The food section includes canned vegetables, meat, fruit, pickles, jam, jelly, and preserves. Among the baked goods are cakes, cookies, pies, bread and rolls.

The 1952 specialty in this section is an apple dessert which may be any kind except apple pie which is entered in a special class.

Furniture and furnishings include refinished, stencilled, homemade furniture, slip covers, needlepoint, hooked mats and chair mats, cane and rush seated chairs and sewing centers. Quilts, both antique and modern, knitted, braided, hooked, crocheted, woven and toothbrush handle rugs are on the list.

Articles of clothing including gloves, bags, scarves, socks, mittens, dresses, suits, coats, skirts, blouses for adults or children are included.

For the first time this year the committee has included clothing with decorative stitchery — an apron, blouse for adult or child's garment trimmed with stitchery.

The section on crafts and hobbies includes crocheted, woven, knitted, tatted and embroidered articles other than apparel, stuffed animals, homemade dolls and toys, textile stencilled articles, metal work and a variety of flower arrangements.

Two Auto Accidents Occur in Woodstock

Two automobile accidents in the Woodstock area Thursday were investigated by Cpl. Ray Dunn of the state police. One accident involved a hit and run car which was trailed by the victim to the Woodstock Playhouse but while the operator of the damaged machine was endeavoring to notify Corporal Dunn the offending machine drove off.

Max Nightensall of North Franklin street, Philadelphia, was driving on route 212 near the Art Student League property and the junction of the Zena road when he reported to Corporal Dunn a dark green Buick sedan attempted to pass and struck his car. It was about 4 p. m. Nightensall gave chase and overtook the car at the Playhouse but the operator of the offending machine pulled away when Nightensall was notifying the state police. The license was reported by Corporal Dunn to have been 1-F-7410 N. Y. A warrant was issued by Justice George J. Braendly and an eight-state alarm was sent out for the car.

The second accident, which Corporal Dunn also checked, was at 3:45 p. m. Thursday. A Mercury sedan owned by William Hand of the Woodstock Dairies, operated by his son, Samuel Hand, and a car operated by Benjamin Franklin King of Quarryville collided near the former Justice Shultis house on Bearsville road. The cars were damaged slightly. There was no arrest.

Held for Pool Dip

Officers Kenneth Gaffney and John TenEyck, who arrested Sidney Floyd Verity, 49, of Seaford, Merrick, L. I., at about 10 p. m., yesterday, said he had been "swimming" in the pool at Forsyth Park fully clothed. Arraigned today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino on a public intoxication charge, he was given a 10-day suspended sentence. Verity said in court that he had been depressed because of a sequence of family reverses.

Hundreds Attracted to Gala Woodstock Library Fair

Hundreds of persons were on hand for the fun and bargains always provided at the annual Woodstock Library Fair held Thursday afternoon on the library grounds. As usual, too, a brief shower in the afternoon had the crowds scurrying for cover until it passed, and the fair continued. The event attracts residents throughout the county as well as those from nearby states. (Freeman photo)

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Early Sell-Outs Bring in $4,800 Committee Reports

Woodstock, Aug. 1—Threatening clouds which gathered throughout the early afternoon to the north of Overlook Mountain had little effect upon visitors to the quarter-century Library fair Thursday afternoon. A 3 p. m., the fairgrounds were packed with buyers who ignored the first spatters of rain. About 4 p. m., when the shower began in earnest, the afternoon's proceeds had reached a total of almost $4,800, approximately $500 above last year's record sales which topped the previous year's $3,775.

As is the custom, the Woodstock School Band heralded the opening of the fair, promptly at 1 p. m., with the grounds already filled to capacity. It was again hot and humid, rendering the gallons of iced orangeade more delectable, and the hotter hot dogs more desirable. A fair innovation this year by the chairman, Houston Richards, was the placement of the refreshment section directly in front of the library building, almost the geographical center of the fairgrounds. The complete sell-out by 4 o'clock of the amply stocked counters and ice chests, was proof of its advantageous point.

Early Clearances

Several tables reported early sell-outs, the always-popular artists supplies and the apron booth, while the large book section maintained a steady business throughout the afternoon. It was announced that owing to the large number of books offered for sale, which was halted by the rain, that there would be an additional sale at the same place on the library grounds Saturday afternoon. Aside from the rain, the only other mishap was reported from the balloon venders, who ran out of helium gas in the early afternoon. The remaining balloons, will be sold Saturday afternoon also, with a fresh new tank of helium on hand, by Max Angiell, chairman.

Always a fair hit, the Mexican Beachcombers, alias the Chambers Orchestra, the Woodstock Hill Billies, and Arabian Knights, roved the fair grounds taking off only when the rains came, to the library porch where they continued to play in able competition to the rumble of thunder.

The linen table, which contained this year an exceptionally fine selection, reported another sell-out, with several high-priced beautiful pieces going at the end of the afternoon at only a slight reduction.

One of the most heart-warming incidents observed on the fair grounds was the contribution of one of this village's well-known residents. During the afternoon he made frequent visits to the toy table, buying toys. He would then unobstrusively distribute them to the small children clustered around the nearby tables

Big Day for Youngsters

The youngsters in all had a big day of it, with practically the entire rear section of the fair grounds devoted to their pleasures —the pony rides, the kiddy-car-go-round, Boscart, the magician and the game tent, all were swamped with eager patrons. Boscart kept up with his mystifications despite the hazards of threatening showers.

Heavy traffic conditions which prevailed all afternoon and which were intensified when the rain began, were kept well under control by Cpl. Ray Dunn, Trooper Devine and Constable Snyder and Farley. Einer's Radio Service remained on duty amplifying both announcements and music.

Although the showers cleared the grounds partially for a short interval many remained until most of the tables were cleared. With colorful costumes, gala hats, worn by both visitors and members of the committees, this year the fair which has achieved the quarter-century mark was again a lively aggregation of goodwill, good fun and the old spirit of this village rampant and alive as ever.

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Delayed on her maiden voyage to the United States, France's new luxury liner, The Flandre, will be late getting away on her first transatlantic trip home. Art Show Attracts Visitors From 15 Different States

A thousand persons from 15 states have visited the Art Show at the George Washington School, Wall street, sponsored as part of Kingston's 300th Anniversary. Mrs. George V. D. Hutton, co-chairman of the show with Mrs. Emily C. Chadbourne, made this report today.

More than half of the visitors came from outside the Kingston area, with persons from California, Maine and Georgia having registered. Many representatives of museums and galleries have visited the show and without exception all are amazed at the quality and excellence of the exhibition, it was reported.

The show is open from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily, except Sunday when it opens at 1 p. m.

In making this report today Mrs. Hutton said that many persons made special trips to Kingston for the show. Because of the nominal admission fee it is hoped that thousands of Kingston and area residents will visit the show at least once before it closes August 17.

Members of the Innes family visited the show recently and expressed great enthusiasm over the entire exhibition. George Innes was one of the nation's most prominent artists. One of his paintings appears in the exhibition.

This fine exhibition it is stressed helps establish Kingston and Ulster county as an important cultural center. A brief description appears beside each painting making it very easy for anyone to identify and become familiar with the history of the painting.

Some Progress Made at Parley

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 1 (AP) — United Nations and Communist staff officers made a little progress today toward agreement on the wording of the Korean armistice draft.

Lt. Col. Duncan S. Somerville of Cumberland, Md., top UN staff officer, said the UN approved Communist-suggested re-wording in five paragraphs of the bulky truce document during a 65-minute session at Panmunjom.

The changes were minor and had no bearing on the thorny prisoner of war exchange issue, which has deadlocked the main negotiations.

The staff officers meet again tomorrow at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Friday EST).

direct election or nomination of Presidents. On the contrary, the men who designed the Constitution realized that the people could not be trusted to resist appeals to their anger, their selfishness and other passions and did all they could to keep the people's hands off the system of electing presidents. So they provided that the states, acting as states, rather than the people of the states, voting as individuals, should select the persons, to be known as electors, who would then elect the presidents.

The disgusting carnivals in Chicago, manipulated by scheming, unscrupulous men, have no true constitutional basis and certainly the eventful result of this process next November cannot be construed as a constitutional election of a president. The Republican and Democratic parties are private organizations, no more valid as elements of our constitutional government than the Teamsters or the Elks. Indeed, all partisans of these private organizations insist that any assumption by the government of authority within these parties would be a dangerous move toward Hitlerism. I agree that it would be. But I also maintain, with Mr. Norton, that the government should reassert its authority over the elections and conduct them according to the Constitution.

Mr. Patterson, who practices law in Springfield, Mo., presented his study in the July issue of the American Bar Association Journal. He offers a constitutional amendment to replace the original constitutional method in which he finds deadly defects that came to view only after the system had been tried for some time.

Here are the essentials of Mr. Patterson's proposed amendment:

Every fourth year, on January 6, immediately following a general election of senators and representatives, the Senate and House shall meet jointly to ballot for a president. Each senator and representative shall have one vote. A majority shall be required for election. A vice president shall be elected in the same way. Should a president die, the vice president shall take his place only until a new president shall be elected in the same manner.

A president may be dismissed from office by a two-thirds vote of all members of both Houses. His successors shall be elected by the same process. He shall serve only the balance of the term of the man dismissed.

The terms of congressmen shall be increased from two years to four. As Mr. Patterson points out, a two-year term puts too great a burden of expense and political activity on the congressman. If he has to wage a primary campaign and then fight an election, he must make journeys back home at his own expense and pay for campaign activities which are not paid for by his party organization. These matters take time from his official work and a degree of his efficiency is needlessly sacrificed to a rule that accomplishes no public benefit. The terms of the congressmen would coincide with those of the president. Of course, this article would also provide for the automatic repeal of all existing articles in conflict with it.

Hundreds Attracted to Gala Woodstock Library Fair

Hundreds of persons were on hand for the fun and bargains always provided at the annual Woodstock Library Fair held Thursday afternoon on the library grounds. As usual, too, a brief shower in the afternoon had the crowds scurrying for cover until it passed, and the fair continued. The event attracts residents throughout the county as well as those from nearby states. (Freeman photo)

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Early Sell-Outs Bring in $4,800 Committee Reports

Woodstock, Aug. 1—Threatening clouds which gathered throughout the early afternoon to the north of Overlook Mountain had little effect upon visitors to the quarter-century Library fair Thursday afternoon. A 3 p. m., the fairgrounds were packed with buyers who ignored the first spatters of rain. About 4 p. m., when the shower began in earnest, the afternoon's proceeds had reached a total of almost $4,800, approximately $500 above last year's record sales which topped the previous year's $3,775.

As is the custom, the Woodstock School Band heralded the opening of the fair, promptly at 1 p. m., with the grounds already filled to capacity. It was again hot and humid, rendering the gallons of iced orangeade more delectable, and the hotter hot dogs more desirable. A fair innovation this year by the chairman, Houston Richards, was the placement of the refreshment section directly in front of the library building, almost the geographical center of the fairgrounds. The complete sell-out by 4 o'clock of the amply stocked counters and ice chests, was proof of its advantageous point.

Early Clearances

Several tables reported early sell-outs, the always-popular artists supplies and the apron booth, while the large book section maintained a steady business throughout the afternoon. It was announced that owing to the large number of books offered for sale, which was halted by the rain, that there would be an additional sale at the same place on the library grounds Saturday afternoon. Aside from the rain, the only other mishap was reported from the balloon venders, who ran out of helium gas in the early afternoon. The remaining balloons, will be sold Saturday afternoon also, with a fresh new tank of helium on hand, by Max Angiell, chairman.

Always a fair hit, the Mexican Beachcombers, alias the Chambers Orchestra, the Woodstock Hill Billies, and Arabian Knights, roved the fair grounds taking off only when the rains came, to the library porch where they continued to play in able competition to the rumble of thunder.

The linen table, which contained this year an exceptionally fine selection, reported another sell-out, with several high-priced beautiful pieces going at the end of the afternoon at only a slight reduction.

One of the most heart-warming incidents observed on the fair grounds was the contribution of one of this village's well-known residents. During the afternoon he made frequent visits to the toy table, buying toys. He would then unobstrusively distribute them to the small children clustered around the nearby tables

Big Day for Youngsters

The youngsters in all had a big day of it, with practically the entire rear section of the fair grounds devoted to their pleasures—the pony rides, the kiddy-cargo-round, Boscart, the magician and the game tent, all were swamped with eager patrons. Boscart kept up with his mystifications despite the hazards of threatening showers.

Heavy traffic conditions which prevailed all afternoon and which were intensified when the rain began, were kept well under control by Cpl. Ray Dunn, Trooper Devine and Constable Snyder and Farley. Einer's Radio Service remained on duty amplifying both announcements and music.

Although the showers cleared the grounds partially for a short interval many remained until most of the tables were cleared. With colorful costumes, gala hats, worn by both visitors and members of the committees, this year the fair which has achieved the quarter-century mark was again a lively aggregation of goodwill, good fun and the old spirit of this village rampant and alive as ever.

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Delayed on her maiden voyage to the United States, France's new luxury liner, The Flandre, will be late getting away on her first transatlantic trip home. Art Show Attracts Visitors From 15 Different States

A thousand persons from 15 states have visited the Art Show at the George Washington School, Wall street, sponsored as part of Kingston's 300th Anniversary. Mrs. George V. D. Hutton, co-chairman of the show with Mrs. Emily C. Chadbourne, made this report today.

More than half of the visitors came from outside the Kingston area, with persons from California, Maine and Georgia having registered. Many representatives of museums and galleries have visited the show and without exception all are amazed at the quality and excellence of the exhibition, it was reported.

The show is open from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily, except Sunday when it opens at 1 p. m.

In making this report today Mrs. Hutton said that many persons made special trips to Kingston for the show. Because of the nominal admission fee it is hoped that thousands of Kingston and area residents will visit the show at least once before it closes August 17.

Members of the Innes family visited the show recently and expressed great enthusiasm over the entire exhibition. George Innes was one of the nation's most prominent artists. One of his paintings appears in the exhibition.

This fine exhibition it is stressed helps establish Kingston and Ulster county as an important cultural center. A brief description appears beside each painting making it very easy for anyone to identify and become familiar with the history of the painting.

Some Progress Made at Parley

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 1 (AP) — United Nations and Communist staff officers made a little progress today toward agreement on the wording of the Korean armistice draft.

Lt. Col. Duncan S. Somerville of Cumberland, Md., top UN staff officer, said the UN approved Communist-suggested re-wording in five paragraphs of the bulky truce document during a 65-minute session at Panmunjom.

The changes were minor and had no bearing on the thorny prisoner of war exchange issue, which has deadlocked the main negotiations.

The staff officers meet again tomorrow at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Friday EST).

The main delegations are scheduled to meet Sunday after a weeklong recess.

direct election or nomination of Presidents. On the contrary, the men who designed the Constitution realized that the people could not be trusted to resist appeals to their anger, their selfishness and other passions and did all they could to keep the people's hands off the system of electing presidents. So they provided that the states, acting as states, rather than the people of the states, voting as individuals, should select the persons, to be known as electors, who would then elect the presidents.

The disgusting carnivals in Chicago, manipulated by scheming, unscrupulous men, have no true constitutional basis and certainly the eventful result of this process next November cannot be construed as a constitutional election of a president. The Republican and Democratic parties are private organizations, no more valid as elements of our constitutional government than the Teamsters or the Elks. Indeed, all partisans of these private organizations insist that any assumption by the government of authority within these parties would be a dangerous move toward Hitlerism. I agree that it would be. But I also maintain, with Mr. Norton, that the government should reassert its authority over the elections and conduct them according to the Constitution.

Mr. Patterson, who practices law in Springfield, Mo., presented his study in the July issue of the American Bar Association Journal. He offers a constitutional amendment to replace the original constitutional method in which he finds deadly defects that came to view only after the system had been tried for some time.

Here are the essentials of Mr. Patterson's proposed amendment:

Every fourth year, on January 6, immediately following a general election of senators and representatives, the Senate and House shall meet jointly to ballot for a president. Each senator and representative shall have one vote. A majority shall be required for election. A vice president shall be elected in the same way. Should a president die, the vice president shall take his place only until a new president shall be elected in the same manner.

A president may be dismissed from office by a two-thirds vote of all members of both Houses. His successors shall be elected by the same process. He shall serve only the balance of the term of the man dismissed.

The terms of congressmen shall be increased from two years to four. As Mr. Patterson points out, a two-year term puts too great a burden of expense and political activity on the congressman. If he has to wage a primary campaign and then fight an election, he must make journeys back home at his own expense and pay for campaign activities which are not paid for by his party organization. These matters take time from his official work and a degree of his efficiency is needlessly sacrificed to a rule that accomplishes no public benefit. The terms of the congressmen would coincide with those of the president. Of course, this article would also provide for the automatic repeal of all existing articles in conflict with it.
